SECOND FRONT MOVE GAINS

At Farewell for Draftees Leaving Mansfield Today

Here are four scenes at this morning's send-off for the contingent of Draft Board 3 as it left for army induction. At left, Robert Farst leans out of the bus window, while Jean Larbee stands on tiptoe for a farewell kiss. Both are from Butler, and Robert is observing his 24th birthday today. In upper center is one of the family groups at the send-off, and below is the brass horn section of the Mansfield Senior high school band which played this morning. Left to right are Todd Strohmenger, Marvin McReady, Joe Brumfield, and Allen Sanford. In right photograph, little Mary Jane Troupe rests on the shoulder of her father, Ted Troupe, and waves goodbye to her uncle, Jake Troupe.

7,500 Start Registering Saturday

22 Stations Enroll 'Oldster' Manpower

Mansfield and Richland County Men In 45 Through 64 Age Group to Answer Nation's 4th Draft Call.

Richland county's 7,500 middle-aged men, those between 45 and 64, many of them a little paunchy around the waist and most of them greying at the temples, will register tomorrow, Sunday or Monday in the fourth draft call of the nation's manpower mobilization.

At 22 registration points throughout the county, draft board representatives and volunteer workers will be on hand for the three-day period to handle the filling out of the buff-colored cards which will provide the same information which was inventoried in February. This includes:

The registrant's name residence, mailing address, telephone, age, birthplace, his employer's address, his employment or business, and the name and address of a person who will always know his whereabouts

Registration stations will be open Saturday and Sunday from noon until 6 p. m., and on Monday from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m. The registration will be conducted in much the same manner as those in the last, but there will be no national lottery to determine order numbers because men over 44 are not sub-

Here Are Stations For Registrations

Here are Richland county's 22 registration stations for men between the ages of 45 and 64 years, inclusive. Listed with each registration point is the name of the draft board representative who will be in charge of the volunteer staffs handling the registration.

Board 1—Board headquarters, 603 Farmers Bank building, Capt. A. L. Allen; American Legion home, Earl Nist; Prospect Park, J. F. Carrigan; Brinkerhoff school, P. M. Eliot; and Johns Park, Floyd Dent.

Board 2 — Board headquarters, 901 Richland Trust building, Bryan Styert; Delano lodge hall, George Draffan; Newman street school, Frank Glasgow and Charles Hubbs; Sons of Herman hall, Fred Miller, Madison township high school, J. H. Francis; Bushnell school, Charles Freehafer; Hedges street school, Harry Downs and Claude Ewing, and No. 3 Fire station, Tom A. Woodard.

Board 3 — Board headquarters, third floor of courthouse, Charles Kirkwood; Shelby city hall, J. M. Crawford; Lexington town hall, Ralph Lutz; Union high school, Weller township, E. R. Hershey; Bellville council chamber, H. L. Bigbee; Butler village council chamber, Earl Heminger; Plymouth mayor's office, James B. Derr; Lucas State bank, Roy Culler, and Smith township room, David Bushey.

DEFIES NAZIS

Guerrilla Chief Fights on; Family Seized.

LONDON—(INS)—Nazi authorities in Belgrade have seized the wife and four children of Gen Draja Mihailovitch as hostages following the refusal of the Yugoslav loyalist leader to surrender with his guerilla bands, informed Yugoslav sources in London reported today.

It was believed that Mihailovitch not only had refused to buy the release of his family by his surrender but had answered the ultimatum by launching a new spring offensive.

The report of the family's arrest, indicating that Gen. Mihailovitch was still active, spiked Axis radio claims that his "Chetniks" had been wiped out.

BIG CROWD AT 3RD SEND-OFF

Selectees From Draft Board 3 Off For Induction; Expect 35 Per Cent to Return.

For the third consecutive day, Richland county this morning gave an enthusiastic send-off to a contingent of its sons leaving for an army induction center on their way to service for Uncle Sam.

A crowd almost as large as those on Wednesday and Thursday morning, when 5,000 persons took part in the send-off, turned out today. The contingent of selectees filled three buses, which were parked on the east side of the square, in front of the courthouse

Today's group was made up from registrants in Draft Board 3, which has jurisdiction over all of Richland county except Mansfield.

It was believed that about 35 per cent of this group would fail to pass the army's physical examination, since this was the proportion rejected in the two previous groups this week. The members of the Board 1 and 2 contingents who were not accepted are back in the city, the latter returning last night.

All's Confusion On Gasoline Rationing

OPA Insists Limit Will Be Under Five Gallons, Henderson and Ickes Say It'll Be More; Resort Men Groan.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The gasoline rationing system to affect 10,000,000 east coast motorists was the subject of much confusion today.

Two government agencies are disputing an original estimate of 2½ to five gallons weekly for "non-essential" driving, and have almost three weeks to straighten it out.

While there was still no clear-cut picture of how much gasoline would be doled out when the program goes into operation May 15, there were protests from many angles on the low estimate made by a spokesman of the Office of Price Administration

Millard H. Davis, representing New England's half-million dollar resort industry, said the limitation would mean ruin for the business, and similar protests came from southern Maryland resort owners.

The railroads, already overtaxed, offered little hope of being able to help—"we just don't have the rolling stock," a spokesman said.

There were these four reports here on the gasoline rationing situation:

1. The OPA spokesman still insisted that the 2½ to five gallon limit would be the one adopted.

2 Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the estimate probably was "too low" and that weekly quotas would depend entirely on supplies on hand May 15

3. Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes said there was "no justification" for the original estimates, and that it was unwise to speculate on the probable quotas because they would depend on supply.

4 One of Ickes' aides said the quota probably would be nearer to 25 gallons monthly—still more than 50 per cent under the average consumption of gasoline last year, but very little more than the OPA's top guess of five gallons weekly.

POLICEMAN ILL

Lieut. F. Bruce Friday Suffers 3 Strokes; Shows Gain.

F. Bruce Friday, 45, lieutenant in Mansfield's police department, collapsed last night at his home, 114 Park avenue west, after suffering the third in a series of strokes.

Lieut. Friday had the first stroke at 3 p. m. at police headquarters just as he was going off duty. He had been on duty as desk man throughout the day. Fellow officers found him slumped over his desk in the radio room and called Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, for emergency treatment.

Friday recovered temporarily but suffered two more strokes later in the day, according to Police Chief Thomas M. Bell His condition today was reported as "improved."

Phones, Truck Deliveries and Fishing Tackle Hit by WPB

Mansfield took another great step toward war footing today as the government clamped new restrictions on five new phases of civilian life.

The latest orders issued by the War Production Board curtails truck deliveries, restrict the installation of new telephones, reduce the amount of elastic used in corsets and girdles, forbid the manufacture of fishing tackle and fix prices on china, pottery and many cotton products such as sheets, blankets, diapers, towels and ginghams.

Mansfield housewives will have to budget their schedule for home deliveries. Effective May 15, Mansfield carriers, including all stores, can make no special deliveries (one-call trips) except to hospitals and the armed services. No "call-backs" or repeated attempts to deliver goods to the same person may be made on the same day.

Although Mansfield Telephone company officials have received no orders as yet, hereafter new telephones may not be installed except for persons engaged in direct war work or in occupations essential to public welfare. LeRoy Wittemire, manager of the Mansfield company, said that it had been restricting new subscribers to party phones during the past year in anticipation of the order.

As for china and pottery prices, the price ceiling is based on the level of Oct. 1 to 15, 1941. The WPB also ordered a 50 per cent reduction in the amount of elastic fabric which may be used in each corset, girdle, combination or brassiere.

The fishermen were also hit by the new orders. Effective May 31, manufacture of fishing tackle is prohibited and the production of fish hooks may be continued at only one-half last year's rate.

No Time for Labor Disputes, Judge Says; Ends Hearing

Asserting that "the efforts of labor and employers in these times should be confined to production rather than disputes over passing handbills and union organization work," Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today refused to rule on a petition filed by a Mansfield labor organizer for a temporary injunction against Shelby's handbill ordinance.

After hearing brief statements from both sides, the court continued the case indefinitely and told Shelby officials to determine the constitutionality of the ordinance

Declares U. S. in Dark About Tokyo Attackers; Bomber Forced Down in Russia.

PLANE CREW INTERNED

Tokyo, Nervous Over Relations With Russia, Harps on Neutrality Status.

(By Associated Press)

Japan, still puzzled about the "mystery base" from which U. S. bombers raided Tokyo six days ago, asserted today that Washington had not yet issued a communique on the assault because "it has no way of communicating with the American warplanes which attacked Japan."

A Japanese spokesman, Tomokazu Hori, said this meant that none of the raiders had returned to their bases.

While Tokyo thus sought to draw information from Washington, Russia announced that one of the American bombers had made a forced landing on the Soviet Maritime province, facing the Sea of Japan, and had been interned with its crew in compliance with international law.

Russia's action appeared to be an already completed test of the year-old neutrality pact between Tokyo and Moscow, but U. S. embassy officials in Kuibyshev said Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley had been informed of the circumstances and had asked Washington for instructions.

Russia is still technically at peace with Japan, and Tokyo newspapers stressed that fact along with the hope that friendly relations between the two countries might be strengthened through "Russia's better understanding of the greater east Asia war"

"There is no reason why Japan and Russia should quarrel," said the newspaper Asahi.

Other Tokyo comment asserted that "Britain and the United States have little chance to pit Russia against Japan."

225 Walk Out at Hydraulic Press in Mt. Gilead.

MT GILEAD — A walkout of 225 day shift workers at the two plants of the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company, Mt. Gilead's largest industry, today held up production of vital war machinery.

It was reported that the walkout, staged this morning when they day shift reported for work, was in protest of failure to reach an aggreement on wages. A contract between the management and the International Association of Machinists local (AFL) expired March 31.

Neither company nor union officials could be reached today for comment. The plant, employing 380, produces hydraulic presses.

Bill to Aid Men With Dependents

House Military Affairs Unit Studies Draft Allowance Plan.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A bill pending before the house military affairs committee appeared today to be the first step in preparation for drafting men with dependents into the armed forces.

The bill, introduced by Rep Andrew Edmiston, D., W. Va., at the request of the war department, sets up a scale of allowances for the dependents of men in the armed services. The house military affairs committee probably will go to work on it next week.

Edmiston said the primary purpose of the legislation was to relieve hardships among men who have volunteered or who may volunteer in the future. He admitted that it also would be applicable when and if draft boards start putting men with dependents in Class 1-A

Edmiston's bill sets up this scale of family allowances: wife only, $20; wife and one child, $30, with $10 per month additional for each additional child; no wife but one child, $15; no wife and two children, $25, with $10 per month additional for each additional child; a former wife divorced, to whom alimony has been decreed, $20.

In the case of a man to a grandchild, a parent, brother or sister; one parent, $15, two parents, $25; and for each grandchild, brother,

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, who last Monday asked county commissioners to let the contract for meals for county jail prisoners to a Mansfield restaurant, may have to continue serving meals at the jail as an economy measure, commissioners predicted today.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said he had contacted a number of restaurants in the city and had found none willing to serve the meals for less than 23 cents each, the amount the sheriff receives.

Restaurant proprietors pointed out that increasing food costs and the problem of delivering warm meals to the jail prisoners would make it unprof-

BRITISH HIT VITAL BALTIC SUPPLY PORT

Strike Across Germany; FDR Reported as Approving Marshall Plans.

BOMBS FIRE ROSTOEK

Explosives Rip Plane Center as Russians Report New Success at Bryansk.

(By United Press)

Great Britain's aerial offensive struck across Germany today to the Baltic port of Rostock, vital airplane supply center for Adolf Hitler's spring offensive, and it was reported that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have agreed on strategy for opening a second European front.

The president was said in London to have sent a message to Churchill saying he fully approved of the decisions reached by British strategists and U. S. Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall—decisions believed to call for a new front against Hitler in western Europe.

There were indications that the heavy British aerial offensive and lightning Commando raids on the Nazi-held European coast are the forerunners of even more "aggressive" operations, agreed upon by Marshall and the British leaders in their London talks last week.

The mounting signs that the war may be carried back to Hitler in western Europe this year—forcing him to fight major battles on both the east and west—laid increasingly heavier stress on the role which American men and weapons will play in such an Allied strategy.

There are growing indications that Britain may seize the initiative and do the invading, using American men, munitions and materials to buck a stalemate on the "invasion fronts."

The RAF's spring offensive, necessary prelude to any second front action, last night and early today pounded Germany's Baltic port of Rostock with big bombs and started large fires after a round-trip attack of nearly 1,000 miles.

The Germans made no mention of an attack on Rostock, home of the large Heinkel airplane works

33 RESCUED

Survivors Tell How Torpedo Hit Swedish Freighter.

HAMILTON, Bermuda —(INS)— Thirty-three survivors of a torpedoed Swedish freighter rested in Bermuda homes provided for them by the American Red Cross today following their rescue after drifting for 16 hours in a lifeboat

Their ship was attacked by a submarine in Atlantic waters Monday evening and the captain, engineer and four crew members were lost, the survivors said.

No explosion occurred when the torpedo struck, but burning oil gushed from the freighter in a steady stream, lighting up the surface of the water for some time and burning several of the survivors while they were swimming around waiting to be taken into the lifeboat.

PRODUCTION UP

Bituminous Mines Operate at 95 Per Cent Capacity.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The nation's bituminous coal production for the week ended April 18 was estimated today by the National Coal association at 11,400,000 net tons, or 95 per cent of present mine capacity.

Production for the corresponding week of last year, which was the third of five straight weeks when the output was curtailed by mine shutdowns, was only 1,277,000 tons.

27-29 District Senate Race In State Political Spotlight

Statewide interest in the approaching state and district campaigns will be be focused on the senatorial contest in the 27th-29th district which includes Richland county, since the outcome here will go a long way toward deciding control of the state legislature political observers pointed out in Columbus today.

Re-established two weeks ago by a state supreme court ruling following a long dispute among state officials, the 27th-29th district will have only one senator during the next two years instead of two.

Both of the district's present senators, P. H. Rogers and Joseph Jameson of Lorain county, are Republicans. Jameson has announced he will seek re-election, but Rogers, who is ill, is not expected to run again. Also in the G. O. P. race is Charles J. Pittenger of Shelby.

Ralph Lutz, former state representative from Lexington, withdrew as a Democratic candidate when Richland county was taken out of the Democratic 29th-31st district and returned to the Republican 27th-29th district. His withdrawal left the party without a candidate.

Republicans want to win at least two senatorial and representative posts from the Democrats next fall to give them a working majority in the legislature. The death of Senator Grant P. Ward of Columbus last winter forced the Republicans to depend on the help of at least one Democrat to pass legislation. The G. O. P. now holds an 18-to-15 edge

JAPS TRY NEW BAIT TO GET DATA ON RAID

Declares U. S. in Dark About Tokyo Attackers; Bomber Forced Down in Russia.

tions with Russia stems in part from the extreme vulnerability of Japan to bombing and submarine attacks based at the Soviet port of Vladivostok, only 680 miles across the Sea of Papan from Tokyo.

So long as Russia and Japan remain at peace, U. S. warplanes would be prohibited, legally, from using Vladivostok or other Soviet bases to attack Japan.

The internment of the fliers offered a delicate problem for the Russians—how to treat a soldier with whom you are allied on one front (the German front) when he enters your territory on another frontier in war against a nation (Japan) with which you are at peace?

There have been many cases in which British and German fliers came down in neutral Eire. The Irish held that their position was clearly dictated by international law—the fliers were interned for the duration. The indications in the present incident were that Russia likewise was following international law to the letter.

(On April 13, only five days before the raid on Japan, the first anniversary of the Russian-Japanese neutrality pact, the organ of the Russian Communist party, the newspaper Pravda, warned Japanese militarists to hew to the line of neutrality.

(Tokyo's morning papers reviewed relations with the Soviet Union today, expressing belief they would remain harmonious. The timing suggested that the incident of the United States plane might have inspired the comment.)

Only yesterday at his press conference, the official Russian press spokesman, S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, was asked what the Russian position would be if such a landing, as is now confirmed, were made on Russian soil. Lozovsky replied:

"One can imagine dozens of suppositions. Let's wait until something happens."

Other developments in the far Pacific war:

BURMA—Capture of three key cities by Japan's armies sharpened the crisis for British-Chinese forces today, but British military quarters said British troops falling back from Taungdwingyi had straightened the sagging Allied line "most skillfully."

These quarters said the retreat of Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's hopelessly out-numbered Chinese troops from Pyinmana, 150 miles south of Mandalay, had compelled the British to withdraw from Taungdwingyi, 40 miles to the northwest.

Loikaw, capital of the Burma Karen-ni states, 65 miles southeast of Pyinmana, was the third key Allied city to fall to the invaders in the new all-out Japanese offensive.

Chinese headquarters said Japanese troops out-numbered the Chinese garrison at Loikaw by 10 to one.

Japanese forces, bolstered by fresh, rested troops and commanding an overwhelming superiority in planes and tanks, were reported hurling all their strength into the battle in an attempt to break through to Mandalay before the drenching monsoon rains begin in south and central Burma.

AUSTRALIA — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied warplanes heavily bombed the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, blasting barracks, warehouses and shipping and machine-gunning Japanese troops.

Enemy planes attacked bomb-scarred Port Moresby, Allied base in southern New Guinea, three times, the communique said.

Battle For Manila Bay In Stalemate

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The battle for Manila bay developed into a temporary stalemate today, with Corregidor free from aerial attacks for the second day after 12 consecutive days of concentrated bombing and artillery attacks failed to silence the fort's batteries.

Desultory artillery exchanges between Japanese shore batteries and Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's big guns continued, but the action was considered so unimportant that the war department issued no communique for a full day.

Japanese pressure against the outnumbered defenders of Panay and Cebu continued, but nothing decisive was reported, although the American-Filipino forces on those islands remained in grave peril because of the enemy's great numerical superiority.

Russians Capture Crimea Position

LONDON —(INS)— Soviet troops have captured the "Golden Range" a powerfully fortified height in the Crimea after a four-day battle, Exchange Telegraph reported from Kuibyshev today.

The range commanded a full view of Soviet positions and thus was a valuable adjunct to the Germans.

Hint Occupation of Madagascar

LONDON —(INS)— Observers in London today discussed the imminent possibility that British South African forces may shortly occupy the strategic French island of Madagascar, in the Indian ocean off the east coast of Africa, to forestall a Japanese invasion.

The feeling in London appears to be that South Africa most logically will follow up its rupture of diplomatic relations with Vichy yesterday by occupying the island to prevent any Japanese attempt at seizure.

It was recalled that Premier Jan Christian Smuts in a recent speech warned that South Africa could not stand by idly if such a danger as Japanese invasion threatened.

The break in diplomatic relations followed receipt of reports that a reign of terror had swept the French insular possession following orders from Pierre Laval, newly installed as chief of the Vichy French government. Free French sympathizers in Madagascar were said to have been arrested by the hundreds.

BIG CROWD AT 3RD SEND-OFF

Selectees From Draft Board 3 Off For Induction; Expect 35 Per Cent to Return.

Many of this week's groups were drawn from the I-B classification—originally deferred for faulty vision or other physical defects.

Relatives and friends packed the courthouse steps this morning, and—as in previous occasions, they crowded around the buses until they drew away at 8:10 a. m.

It had been planned to have a band present from one of the other schools of the county, but there was a hitch in arrangements and at the last minute the Mansfield Senior high band, which has played at two previous send-offs, was pressed into service to provide music this morning.

Today's send-off brought to a close a heavy week of activity for the Richland Victory Civic committee, a week which included three send-offs and the largest "going-away" party to date. Another send-off is planned for next Wednesday, when a small group drawn from all three boards will leave.

At least four are planned for May. A colored contingent will leave the first week of the month, and several weeks later three large groups will leave, again on successive days.

Oregon Hospital Adopts Unique Air Raid Plan

THE DALLES, Ore.—(INS)—Fearing a bombing raid less than evacuation of patients, the Eastern Oregon tuberculosis hospital at The Dalles has decided to move its 154 patients into corridors and hope for the best in the event of an enemy attack.

"We would lose far more patients trying to evacuate them than we would by keeping them in the hospital through a raid," said Dr. J. M. Odell, superintendent. "Moving them into the corridors would protect them against anything but a direct hit."

Furthermore, Dr. Odell said he can't conceive of the enemy's swooping on The Dalles, a town of 6200 population nearly 150 air line miles from the sea coast. And even if bombers should roar overhead, the chances of their hitting the small hospital seem pretty slim.

The State Board of Control agreed with Dr. Odell and backed him against the State Civilian Defense Council, which had demanded that he make plans for evacuating patients.

in the mayor's court. Mayor William R. Morris was at the hearing but made no comment.

Plaintiff in the action was Homer Pierce, Mansfield, organizer for the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers' Union, who was twice arrested in Shelby for passing handbills without a permit.

Pierce was scheduled to go before Mayor Morris today for violating the ordinance the second time. Previously he was fined $50 which was suspended by the mayor.

Judge Huston said the petition had no place in common pleas court, at least until after the mayor's court hears Pierce's case in Shelby and rules on the constitutionality of the ordinance which was passed 11 years ago.

"If the ordinance is upheld by the mayor and you want to appeal the decision, I'll hear the case within a few days," Judge Huston told Pierce and his attorney, George W. Biddle of Mansfield.

In his statement to the court, Biddle said a policeman stood near Pierce while the organizer distributed handbills for the union to employes of the Shelby Autocall company and caused workers to hesitate to accept the bills.

Arguing the case for the city, Law Director Frank C. Long pointed out that the mayor usually issues licenses for handbills if he is asked but Pierce made no request for a permit. He then added that the Autocall company is engaged in war production.

Police Chief Leroy Coffey of Shelby, also named a defendant in Pierce's action, was in court but did not participate in the hearings.

itable to accept a contract for less than 23 cents a meal, Mitchell said.

The sheriff sought a change in the plan, he said, after he was criticized for allegedly making a profit on the meals contrary to the state law. The maximum charge set by the state is 25 cents per meal, but profits are not permitted.

Mitchell said today he believed the solution to the problem is in getting an itemized statement of expenditures for food at the jail and adjusting the price downward if it is shown that a profit can be made at the present figure.

Sheriff Robinson previously agreed to turn all profits back to the county at the end of the year. He added, however, that he had no figures to show he was making any profits, considering his expenditures for food supplies, cooking utensils, heating and lighting, and employment of a cook.

Commissioners will ask the sheriff for a statement of expenditures for meals and let his report determine their future action, Mitchell indicated.

Reports U. S. Has Ample Supply of Vital Celestite

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The United States will not have to depend upon a foreign supply of celestite, a mineral used for making tracer bullets, military flares and many other items, as a 268-year supply now exists in the western states, Dr. R. R. Sayers, director of the bureau of mines, has informed Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

"Celestite is one mineral for which the United States will not have to depend upon foreign sources if Atlantic shipping is further disrupted by the war," Dr. Sayers declared. He added that if Axis submarines succeed in cutting off imports from Great Britain, the United States need only turn to its western states and develop known deposits of celestite."

Dr. Sayers pointed out that California has one deposit of an estimated 600,000 tons and another of 12,000; Arizona, a deposit of 180,000 tons; and Washington, a deposit of 12,000. This is a total of 804,000 tons of celestite, which at the 1940 rate of consumption of about 3,000 tons, would last 268 years.

ject to compulsory military service.

Object of the registration is to provide the government with a comprehensive inventory of all available manpower so that needed help can be shifted into the nation's vast war production industries. Occupational questionnaires will be mailed out later to obtain this information.

Persons who are away from home or out of their own draft board districts may register at the point closest to them, but all must register and carry their registration cards with them the same as men who have previously registered and are subject to military call.

This registration applies only to men who reached their 45th birthdays on or before Feb. 16, 1942, and will not be 65 before April 27—Monday.

Intensify Efforts For Final 2 Days Of Music Drive

dicated in ready response of the workers to accept new prospect lists for the final wind-up of the drive.

The 245 campaign workers were reminded to inform their prospects of the change in auditoriums for the concerts next season, since John Simpson high school will be more accessible in view of the transportation problems than the Senior high school auditorium was last season.

Chester Porterfield, national Civic Music representative, in addressing the workers called attention to the splendid response to Civic Music campaigns all over the country as proof of popular recognition that Civic Music is a most important factor in the victory program.

Another complete workers' check-up will be made tonight and final reports will be due at 8 p. m. Saturday when the campaign closes. No more season tickets will be available after Saturday night and single admission tickets cannot be purchased at the door.

Headquarters will remain open until 9 p. m. today and all day Saturday for the convenience of persons wishing to obtain their memberships at headquarters.

sister and additional parent, $5.

The enlisted man would match the government's allowance. A second bill pending before the military affairs committee would raise the base pay for enlisted men to $42 a month.

Edmiston's bill—and the war department's recommendations—are based on the assumption that the bill to increase base pay will pass.

That means that a man with a wife and child would add $30 out of his $42 check to the government's $30, making the total to be given his family $60.

News Happenings From Communities In Richland County, Vicinity

LIST PLACES TO REGISTER IN ASHLAND

Tuesday and Wednesday Set For Distribution of Sugar Ration Cards.

ASHLAND—Newton Mansfield, Ashland county rationing administrator, has announced the following regulations in regard to sugar registrations.

Registrations for "trade" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at all county high schools. Trade registrations will be for retailers and wholesalers and institutional and industrial users, the latter including hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, hospitals, orphans' homes, homes for the disabled, county infirmary, bakers, candy makers, ice cream factories, meat preservers and canning establishments.

Registrations will be conducted from 3 p. m. to 10 p. m. on the two days. All applicants whose names begin with A through K will register on Tuesday and those whose names begin with L through Z will register on Wednesday.

The county is divided into five rationing districts and applicants must register at the high school in their rationing district.. 3-1 district is the city of Ashland and all in the trade within the city limits will register at Ashland high school. In addition Ashland high school is the only high school in district 3-3 which comprises Milton, Montgomery and Perry townships and trade applicants in that district will also register at Ashland high school.

District 3-2 includes Ruggles, Nova, Sullivan, Savannah and Polk and applicants in these five townships should register at the nearest high school in these townships.

Mifflin, Vermiillon and Mohican townships are in district 3-4. There are two high schools in the district, one at Hayesville and one at Jeromesville and applicants should register at the nearest.

Applicants in district 3-5, Green, Lake and Hanover townships, will register at the nearest of the two high schools in this district, Perrysville and Loudonville.

Warning is given that registrations will not be received at any schools from any applicant whose place of business is not in the rationing district in which the school is located.

Consumer sugar registrations will be held in all elementary schools in the county on May 4, 5, 6, and 7 from 3 p. m. to 10 p. m. May 4 will be for registration of all applicants whose names begin with A through E. May 5 will be for applicants whose names begin with F through K; May 6 will be for applicants whose names begin with L through R, and May 7 will be for those whose names begin with S through Z.

COUNCIL AT SHELBY TALKS GAS RATES

Has Informal Session With Ohio Fuel Gas Company Officials.

SHELBY—Officials at the Ohio Fuel Gas company from Columbus and members of city council held an informal meeting Thursday night at the city building to discuss gas rates for Shelby.

No action was taken at the meeting but it is expected that a gas rate ordinance will be ready for presentation to the council at its next regular semi-monthly meeting on May 4.

Gas company officials pointed out that the volume of sales here had dropped in recent years from domestic consumers which makes it necessary for the company to ask an increase in rates.

City council has contended that there should be no raise. The present three-year ordinance, which expired last year, will continue in effect until a new schedule is approved by council.

The gas company has given city officials two rates to study. One was a five-year "sandbag" schedule that started with a lower rate than the present scale and ended several cents higher for the average 5,000-foot user for the final year of the contract.

The gas company then offered the city a flat two-year scale that would have set up a 71-cent scale for the average 5,000-foot consumer as compared with the 69-cent rate that the same user gets under the present rates.

BIOGRAPHY ON CRIPPS NEW AT CITY LIBRARY

Life of Britisher, Honored in China and India, Described In New Volume.

A timely biography on the man who may well hold the key to Britain's future is set down by Eric Estorick in his new book, "Stafford Cripps: Prophetic Rebel," now available at the Mansfield Public library.

The author points out that Cripps is known and honored in China, in India, and that he sums up in general what Americans think of as the best in England.

Anna Rauschning is the author of a second new book, "No Retreat," in which she attempts to prove conclusively that there is no retreat from the horrors of the Nazi world. Mrs. Rauschning, the wife of Dr. Hermann Rauschning who authored "Revolution of Nihilism," tells of her heroic fight to preserve her family in the face of "Nazism."

THE FRENCH IN THE WEST INDIES by W. Adolphe Roberts is a smooth-flowing, vivid narrative, ranging from the distant past to the present, in which the author recounts France's long adventure to get and keep her share of the New World and her influence on the southern part of the United States and the northern nations of South America.

CROSSROADS OF EMPIRE by Woodbern E. Remington contains impressionistic descriptions of Malaysia, with special attention to the Moros and other native tribes of the Philippines. Political comment is interspersed, with some interpretation of Japan's interest in the islands, and a plea for postponing Philippine independence.

Other non-fiction: 1001 WAYS TO USE CONCRETE by Hayes; SUNSET'S BARBEQUE BOOK by Lane; THE SLIDE RULE by Clark; PIPES AND VALVES by Molloy; PUMPS AND PUMPING by Molloy; A DICTIONARY OF METALS AND THEIR ALLOYS; PRESSURE GAUGES by Smith; ELECTRIC WIRING (Domestic); MECHANICAL DRAWING by Kenison, etc.; MODERN RADIO ESSENTIALS by Hathaway.

Edgar Maass revives sixteenth century Spain in all its color, adventure and romance in his tale of Don Pedro who, at twenty-eight, had conquered a kingdom and amassed a fortune. DON PEDRO AND THE DEVIL follows the fortune of this one man from Spain to Peru—against the backdrop of that world conquest and its spiritual contradictions—and of the two women, Dona Isabella and an Indian princess, who make possible his redemption. The many characters, real and imaginary, are faithful to history and the period.

THE ROCK AND THE WIND by Vivian R. Bretherton is a story of Oregon's early days, and a vivid picture of the untamed frontier life of the early settlers responsible for the growth and development of the Pacific Northwest. Particularly, it is the story of Trudy Tresellian and of her romance with a young engineer, of their journey to the coast where Breck helped lay out the new railroads, and where lovely and dynamic Trudy became a heroic figure in the expansion of Portland and the growth of the Northwest.

COASTS OF FOLLY by Joel Williams is a fast-paced historical novel revolving around a filibustering expedition to Venezuela in the 1800's when the Young South American nations were beginning their fight for freedom against Spain. The background is New York harbor, the West Indies, and the coasts of South America.

Other fiction: SPENLOVE IN ARCADY by McFee; SO LONG, SUCKER by Seltzer; THE BODY IN THE LIBRARY by Christie.

RICHLAND WILL BE AMONG 92 COUNTY FAIRS

Three-Day Farm Show To Be Held This Year; Dates To Be Aug. 25 to 28.

Although the war has resulted in cancellation of the 1942 Ohio State fair, the Richland county fair and 91 others in all sections of the state will be held as usual, it was announced today by Mrs. Don A. Detrick, executive secretary of the Ohio Fair Managers association.

The Richland county exposition in Mansfield will be held Aug. 25 to 28—a three-day fair this year instead of the usual four-day show. Ten other county fairs in Ohio have been set for the same week.

Only one county has decided to drop its fair this year, the Vinton county board announcing it will not attempt to finance an agricultural show during the war period. The fair was held at McArthur in southern Ohio.

The state's fair season will get under way July 15 with an independent exposition at Ashley. Dates of other fairs in this area include:

Millersburg, Mt. Gilead and Shelby week of Sept. 6; Bellville, week of Sept. 13; Ashland, week of Sept. 13, and Loudonville, week of Oct. 4.

Fair board officials will meet in Columbus June 12 to discuss the problems facing them because of the war. The meeting will be known as a "fair clinic" and will enable fair officials to exchange ideas and attempt to solve the transportation and shortage problems.

SETS UP RURAL SCHOOL EXAMS

Health Commissioner Says Pre-School Clinics To Start May 11.

With the schedule for the preschool examination of Mansfield children already set, Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, announced today that rural children entering school will get their pre-school clinic examinations starting May 11.

Dr. Wild said that he had conferred with the township school board officials and that Mary L. Bushey, county health nurse, had contacted mothers in many of the county school communities and has enlisted their aid in getting the children to central examination centers.

The county schedule for examinations is as follows:

May 11, Madison, Mifflin, Springfield, and Sandusky; May 13, Plymouth, Cass, Blooming Grove, Butler, Sharon, Franklin and Weller; and May 14, Washington, Monroe, Perry, Jefferson and Worthington. All county examinations will be from 1 to 3 p. m.

Mansfield children entering school will be given their preschool examinations starting May 18 at the health department rooms in the municipal building from 8 to 10 a. m.

The first electrically cooked meal was prepared in England in 1895.

CONVENE IN CITY

Girl Scout Executives to Meet Here April 30.

Girl Scout executives from Canton, Massillon, Wooster and other cities are expected in Mansfield Thursday night, April 30, for the program to be presented by Miss Janet E. Tobitt, author and authority on music, folk games and dancing.

Sponsored by the Mansfield Girl Scout council the program will be held at the Y. M. C. A., Where the group will participate in folk games and dancing following Miss Tobitt's program. Girl Scouts and recreational leaders of the city will be guests.

Miss Tobitt, a native of Sussex, England, has been closely identified with the Girl Scout organization in this country, and her songs are known throughout the Scout membership. The material for her program was collected in France, Belgium, England, Scotland and Wales.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1942.

Older residents say they can't recall a time when spring fever was less in evidence than it is this year.

Now that the Republican national committee has expressed itself in favor of winning the war, that idea seems to be unanimous.

It is estimated any screwball movement in the United States can attract two million dupes—and at ten cents a month from each of them, that's some pickings!

Watching Our Selectees Leave

ON THREE successive days this week Mansfielders have witnessed the departure of young men for induction centers, in readiness to enter military service.

Some of these will return soon, because of failure to meet the final strict physical examinations, but the majority will be assigned to training camps to be prepared for the stern work that lies ahead.

As these, and other contingents of Mansfield and Richland county young men, have left their families, friends and home surroundings there has been a keen sense of community loss and greater realization of the marked changes which war is making, and will continue to make, in the lives of millions of people in this country, as it has already done in many other parts of the world.

If the gathering of large crowds in downtown Mansfield each of the mornings on which a contingent of selectees left, serves no other purpose it at least impresses all participants with a feeling that other sacrifices are minor, as compared with those being made by these young men and by their parents and loved ones.

The full impact of war has not yet been felt in the United States, except as it has touched individual families with the sorrow of loss of a member, but there is no justification for belief that this can be long avoided, and it will require courage, determination and steadfast purpose on the part of every citizen to carry through to the end.

As these boys leave home, either one at a time or in groups, they should have full confidence that those who are left at home will faithfully perform all of the large and small tasks that play a part in the national war effort. They can ask no more—and they deserve no less.

Carelessness Can Lose the War

LITTLE satisfaction is found in reports of investigators that the Normandie fire was not due to sabotage—that it was merely carelessness on the part of workers and supervisors.

It should therefore be assumed, of course, that later fires on the Normandie, during rehabilitation efforts, were also due to carelessness, rather than intent.

The habit of carelessness, as evidenced at Pearl Harbor last December and later in connection with the Normandie fire, is such a prevalent weakness that it is generally excused as "unavoidable"—yet it is this same element of carelessness that contributes largely to the 40,000 annual traffic toll in the United States and is responsible for a large percentage of fire losses in this country.

An important phase of military training deals with the discipline designed to overcome careless habits, for it cannot be doubted that carelessness COULD lose the war—just as it retarded war efforts by causing the Pearl Harbor debacle and destruction of the Normandie.

Fine Concerts Again In Prospect

SCANNING the list of high grade talent from which the Mansfield Civic Music association is to choose next season's concerts, assurance can be felt that there will be no diminution of quality.

With tomorrow evening marking the end of the membership-renewal campaign which has been in progress through the week, it is announced that completion of the canvass of former members leaves some memberships available to newcomers to the city and others who may have been unable to secure tickets for last season's concerts.

Entirely aside from the enjoyment which music lovers get out of entertainment such as is provided in this concert series, it is important that this educational and cultural activity be continued as a part of Mansfield's diversified civic program, and maintenance of membership in the Civic Music association may well be considered a privilege by all who are interested in bringing the inspiration of fine music to the people of this community.

Mass Murder of Hostages

NO REPORTS of loss of lives in actual warfare strike such a note of horror as do announcements of the wanton slaying of Axis-held hostages in occupied territory.

This practice is recognized by civilized, or even semi-civilized people, as being so much of a throw-back to savagery that it is difficult to realize that the present generation could produce monsters capable of such atrocities.

But it is not Hitler alone who must be charged with such heinous offenses, for it has been German firing squads, in scores of instances, that have brutally executed hundreds of entirely innocent hostages, in reprisal for acts against invaders that were committed by unknown persons.

While hostages held under constant threat of death are helpless to prevent the acts for which they may be executed, it cannot be doubted that their fate will serve only to make sure the eventual downfall of Hitlerism in Europe and the overthrow of totalitarian power throughout the world.

Valuable Unused Resources

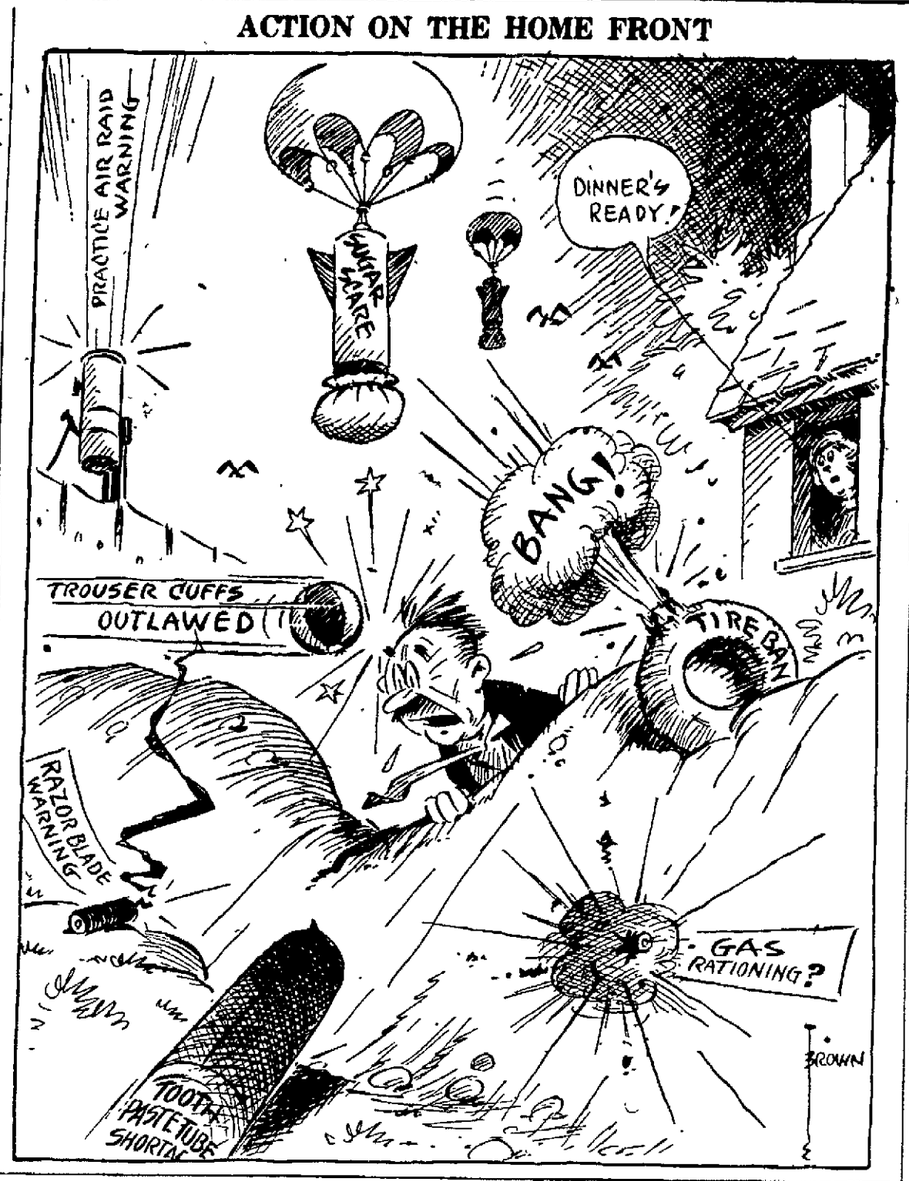
OLD EMERY MINES, long disused, are being reopened in the Berkshire hills of western Massachusetts. Imports from Turkey drove out the domestic product, forcing the closing of the mines. Now war necessities have brought attention back to these disused shafts. As the mining process calls for a special technique, it is fortunate that a few of the old-time emery miners are still alive to direct the younger men.

The war is going to make it necessary to re-survey resources in many fields, and use materials that were scorned in the lavish days of the past.

Search for the Missing Link has been at least temporarily abandoned—possibly on the assumption that it has been found.

However high morale is kept during the day, insomniacs report a considerable drop around 3 a. m.

ACTION ON THE HOME FRONT



Laval's Boost May Blow Off Lid

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

HERR HITLER'S boost of greatly-disliked Pierre Laval into power at the head of the Vichy French government is spoken in United National diplomatic circles in Washington as perhaps being a very favorable symptoms for the democracies.

The reasoning is that, while Laval undoubtedly is completely pro-Nazi, he's too obviously so to suit the fuehrer's purpose in France, and that the latter must be seriously worried, by something or other, to have hoisted him above Marshal Petain's head at the present juncture.

The best guess is that discontent in the countries he's now in control of has become so formidable that he had to risk overdoing matters, in an effort to keep the lid on. But perhaps, it's surmised, substitution of Pierre for the old marshal, as boss at Vichy, will prove to be the very thing that'll simply BLOW it off, so far as France is concerned. And if that happens in France, what a heck of an encouragement it'll be, remark commentators, to Norway, Denmark, Poland, Yugoslavia and Holland to boil over also!

Maybe Italy will anti-Axisly explode, too, some of 'em think.

Labor Trouble.

Reports reach here of trouble Adolf's having even with quite a few of his own Germans.

Sizable riots are rumored to have occurred among workingmen in Berlin's industrial suburbs and at the big factory town of Essen. In fact, there are stories of two or three military mutinies, the soldiers yowling that they're underfed and want to quit fighting. Accounts from Germany itself mention the arrest of several army officers and of Herr Himmler's agents. It's "going some," democratic observers congratulate themselves, if the gestapo's developing anti-Nazism.

Right on the heels of the announcement of Pierre Laval's elevation to supremacy (subject to Adolf's super-supremacy) at Vichy came news of a Free French outbreak, accompanied by street warfare, at St. Nazaire. Hostages, it was related, were being slaughtered wholesale. The Germans themselves proclaimed it, as a warning.

Marshal Petain apparently wasn't vigorous enough.

That, up to a certain point, was a count in his favor with Herr Hitler. A lot of the French regarded him as one of themselves and, so long as they stayed quiet, it paid Adolf to avoid putting 'em on the rampage by naming a well recognized and widely hated and despized pro-Nazi (meaning Pierre) to totalitarianize 'em. When they showed signs of actually returning to the warpath, though, he appears to have felt that he'd better adopt 100 per cent measures.

Information concerning the Axis' internals is skimpy naturally, due to the censorship.

Still, Berlin does give out a bit of it, that it really wants circulated. Illustratively, in notifying a subjugated people that the Nazi'll kill about half of 'em, if they don't discontinue assassinations at every opportunity, sabotage, guerilla tactics and miscellaneous annoyances, they like to have it widely known what their program is, in order to scare the prospective victims nearly to death. Well, these broadcasts have been scattered by the ream lately, and the inference is that they wouldn't be required if the simmerings weren't Nazily regarded as ominous, from their angle. Norway's had 'em in any quantity, and Denmark and the Balkans and the Low Countries. Now France is getting IT'S contribution.

Germany Fears Invasion.

The impression in Washington is that Germany's apprehensive of an Anglo-American landing in western continental Europe and is desperately anxious to prevent the conquered continentals from r'aring up simultaneously, and are taking a chance on Laval, hoping it'll do the business.

Contrariwise, the democracies are trusting in providence that Nazi nervousness is justified.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, April 24, 1922.

Community Chest campaign opened with goal set at $90,000.

Paul Angle was first student of Miami university to attain "perfect average" during three year college course.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Fox, 231 West First street.

Thirty girls of Y. W. C. A. gym class hiked to Lexington.

Born on farm of Lee Fisher, Bowman street road, was destroyed by fire.

John Ferguson, 381 West Fifth street, went to Cleveland to undergo operation.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mitchell, Monroe township.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, April 24, 1937.

Eleventh annual Mansfield relays were staged at Stadium field.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Maytham, 504 Van Buren avenue, celebrated 58th wedding anniversary.

Former Mayor Charles M. Lantz announced he would "attempt a political comeback" as candidate for Democratic nomination for office he vacated.

Joan Balliett was elected president of the Girl Scouts of the Northeastern Ohio district.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beer, 319 North Mulberry street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

In a spectacular battle on the morning of April 24, 1862, Captain David G. Farragut, who had served as a lad in the War of 1812, broke the heavy boom of anchored hulks stretched across the Mississippi below New Orleans and ran the gauntlet of the fire from Forts Jackson and St. Philips forcing the withdrawal of Confederate forces from the city of New Orleans.

Man About Manhattan

Fortune's Smile

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Eight years ago a refugee record player at Hollywood radio stations packed his wife and child into a jalopy and drove to Chicago to ascertain the veracity of certain lavish promises made him by a band leader then high in public favor.

But when this band leader saw his ex-pal from the coast he was unable to recall the vistas of quick fortunes he had painted in such alluring detail . . . as a matter of fact, it was even difficult for him to recall the young man who presented himself and said, "Here I am—when do I begin?"

The tag line to this tale comes a little further along, after I tell you that he hung around Chicago until his money ran out. When this happened he sneaked down the fire escape of his hotel in the snow, hocked his watch for enough gas to nudge the old jalopy to New York, and wound up in the storied precincts of Broadway.

One day last week this same young man signed a contract that will pay him in excess of $50,000 a year for two one-minute broadcasts a week on the Kay Kyser program and the Hit Parade program.

This hikes the kitty considerably but is in no wise necessary to the filling larder, for without the new contract our hero's income would still total more than $100,000 a year.

This young man's name is Martin Block, impresario of the Make Believe Ballroom on WNEW.

PS: Don't think this revelation is going to set hotel detectives on his trail. Martin Block paid that bill he skipped—with interest—long, long ago.

NOTE on Ann Sheridan: she set the Kansas prairies on fire . . . Literally . . . According to one of this department's correspondents at the Cavalry Replacement Training center, Fort Riley, Miss Sheridan spent three days there recently with a USO Camp show unit.

While there she was escorted to the range to witness a .50 caliber machine gun demonstration . . . The trainees, not used to so much oomph at one time, turned their eyes from their sights for a gander at the famous Sheridan figure . . . Unconsciously, they raised their fire and a burst of tracer shells landed in a patch of dry grass, starting a bush fire that raced 100 yards up a steep slope before burning itself out . . . Officers are thinking of equipping the men with blinds the next time a Hollywood star shows up.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. What weapon was originated by the aborigines of Australia?
2. By whom was Australia first settled?
2. Who is the only woman serving in the United States senate?

Words of Wisdom.

Expect not praise without envy until you are dead. Honors bestowed on the illustrious dead have in them no admixture of envy; for the living pity the dead; and pity and envy, like oil and vinegar, assimilate not.—Colton.

Hints on Etiquette.

There are girls (and boys) who can "get away" with a date by talking all the time about themselves and their woes. Better not try it, however, as nobody like a "sour puss" to look at often, or enjoys other people's troubles indefinitely.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The boomerang.
2. English convicts and guards who established a penal colony on the site that now is the city of Sydney.
3. Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, of Arkansas.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Our Soldiers Penalized for Lack Of Foresight In Ordering Quinine

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Two headlines which blazed across the Washington panorama recently indicate part of the reason why Federal Loan Czar Jesse Jones was eased out of the policies and powers of the Defense Supplies, Metals Reserve, and Rubber Reserve Corporations. The headlines were:

Armies Face Quinine Shortage With Java's Fall
Battle of Bataan Ended Because Quinine Pills Ran Out

The facts behind these headlines constituted one of the things which jolted the president and caused him to transfer the buying of vital war supplies to Vice President Wallace's Bureau of Economic Warfare

What happened was this:

Shortly after Pearl Harbor, the War Production Board and the Bureau of Economic Warfare urged Jesse Jones and his purchasing organizations to buy quinine. Ninety-five per cent of this drug comes from Java, which seemed likely to fall.

This drug is almost an all-out essential in combating malaria. And with thousands of U. S. troops slated to fight in the tropics, malaria is about as dangerous as the enemy.

Too Late.

HOWEVER, Jesse Jones and staff waited. Sumatra fell. Then Java was attacked. The world's only real source of quinine seemed sure to fall. Jones ordered a small amount.

Then, on March 5, just one day before Batavia, capital of Java, was captured, Jones' loan administration finally sent a telegram, by this time ordering all the quinine there was to be had in Java —about 52,000,000 ounces.

The telegram was signed by Will Clayton, Texas friend of Jesse's and deputy federal loan administrator. Wishfully, the telegram spoke of June and July delivery. But not one ounce of quinine will ever be delivered from that order.

Prior to this frantic telegram, the WPB and BEW had held many meetings with Jones' staff urging the purchase of quinine.

Lives vs. Dollars.

AT ONE TIME, a BEW official told an inter-government meeting which was arguing about quinine purchases:

"If the war is over early and we are left with a lot of quinine on our hands, then we have only wasted dollars. But if the war lasts a long time then we've wasted lives."

And it now looks as if that were what would happen. It is not fair, of course, to blame Jones for failure to send quinine to Bataan. But it remains an unfortunate fact that for U. S. troops in Africa, Persia, India, North Australia, and the West Indies—to say nothing of United Nations troops in all these and other areas —we have a pitifully small reserve of quinine.

It consists chiefly of 3,165,000 ounces purchased by Jesse Jones from Merck and Co., which had had the foresight to order it long ago. Thus this was merely a transfer from a U. S. firm to a government firm of quinine already here in the United States. It did not enrich our total quinine supply. We also have some other reserves, but added all together, the total is pitifully small for a nation at war.

And if we had acted early enough we could have had Java's total annual output of 52,250,000 ounces.

Army Lemonade.

THE war department is making preparations to serve lemonade to American soldiers in the tropics.

Experts in the quartermaster corps have hit upon a method of dehydrating lemon juice, so that the essence can be preserved and transported in the form of crystals.

This is the first time in military history that the regular army rations have included lemonade. But the quartermaster general makes no apologies. He says, it is not only a refreshing drink, but also is full of vitamins.

Here is the army recipe for lemonade: one eleven-ounce can of lemon crystals, and one gallon of water. Shake well before using.

The French poilu may have his wine, the British Tommy his beer, but the Yank gets his swig of lemonade.

Hot Time In Naziland.

THE senate patents committee recently listened to testimony on the business aspects of the cartel deal between Remington Arms company and the Rheinisch-Westfaelische Sprengstoff company of Germany, whereby Remington, though a friendly U. S. company, agreed not to sell an ammunition ingredient to Great Britain. Also the senate committee discovered there was a chummy "social" side to the cartel business.

Justice department attorney Allen Dobey caused ripples of laughter when he read a letter written by A. A. Dicke, former Remington vice president, who went to Cologne, Germany, to negotiate the ammunition deal. Describing a dinner he had with R. W. S. officials, Dicke wrote:

"That certainly was a treat. You can imagine the rare wines, champagnes, foods, etc., not to mention some 1828 cognac which was used to drink a special toast to the friendship of the two companies and to the success of our plans for co-operation to mutual benefits. Dr. Muller (head of R. W. S.) is also well acquainted with the duPonts, who usually stay at his home when they are in Cologne."

Remington Arms is a duPont subsidiary. R. W. S. is a subsidiary of I. G. Farbenindustrie, giant German chemical trust, which curtailed production of several vital war products in the United States through cartel agreements with large U. S. firms.

Political-Go-Round.

MONTANA politicos are charging that the powerful personal machine of isolationist Senator Burt Wheeler is secretly trying to dictate the tickets of both Republicans and Democrats in order to prevent the selection of candidates hostile to Wheeler. . . . Privately, national Republican chiefs are not happy over the primary victory of Representative Stephen Day, isolationist Illinoian who put out two books through the Flanders Hall Co., Nazi publishing firm. State GOP leaders tried to lick him, but Day skinned through by a relatively narrow margin. Republicans fear that his name on the party ticket will play into the hands of the Democrats. . . . State Democratic leaders are doing a lot of complaining that local Office of Price Administration officials are being chosen from the ranks of Roosevelt-haters.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The other day I ran across a statement from the National Fire Protection association that during the first three months of this year there were 20 fires in the United States that did more than $125,000 damage. There were only eight during the same period last year and 42 during the whole year 1941.

The same day I found a statement by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI. He said: "There have been several acts of wilful damage, but during the first three months of America's participation in the war there have been no indications of any foreign-directed sabotage."

THIS seemed to me to bespeak a dangerous situation, so I called on Dr. David J. Price of the department of agricultural chemistry and engineering. Dr. Price is a vice president of the Fire Protection association and has been called on to investigate several disastrous fires and explosions, among them the New London, Tex., school explosion in 1937.

A cheerful, brown-eyed man with thick greying hair and dressed in a natty blue double-breasted suit, Dr. Price grew serious when I explained why I had called.

"If what Mr. Hoover says is true," he said, "we have a new kind of sabotage—not sabotage by the enemy, but sabotage for the enemy, lack of adequate protection. Unfortunately, the results are the same—loss of war production.

"Recently a fire in a middle west grain elevator destroyed enough wheat to make bread for 700,000 soldiers for a year. A fire in a rubber factory destroyed enough rubber to make 2,000,000 tires. An explosion destroyed a factory that was accounting for one-third of our national magnesium powder capacity.

THESE fires are largely due to expanded production and to the introduction of new processes. Of course we must expand production and use new processes, but what is the use of doubling the production of war materials plant if we are going to lose the entire production in a fire?

"Expansion of fire protection must progress step by step with expansion of production."

Dr. Price emphasized that neither the FBI nor any other agency was to blame for not preventing these fires, for after all there was no criminal intent.

What he does say is this: "We have the technical knowledge on how to prevent fires, and we must bring it into play."

There is nothing mysterious about fires or explosions, Dr. Price maintains—"There must be something to burn in every case. The job is to find out what is present that might burn, or explode, and take steps to prevent that happening."

"Don't get too excited about that vegetable garden. . . . You haven't asked the building superintendent if you can use the flower box for it this year."

A Farmer's Diary

In the Model T

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I KNEW a man who bought his first motor car some years ago, and went to Detroit to drive it home himself, from Henry Ford's factory. Roads were not so good and a heavy rain brought high water to his home neighborhood before he reached there in the brand new Model T.

In one place, where the road was covered with water, an old farmer with a team was stopping traffic and offering to drag cars through the long submerged portion. "It's way over hub deep," he declared. "A car can't do it alone—I've took three through there in the last hour."

"What do you charge?" inquired the young man.

"Two dollars."

"Tell you what," ejaculated the other, "I'm fool enough to want to see what my bus'll do! If you'll go alongside and wait, I'll give you the job, when I stick."

The farmer stopped his horses about midway, and waited.

The other backed up and charged full tilt, not knowing what might happen. The water parted in two solid sheets and when he reached the other side, from the tail of his eye the motorist glimpsed the farmer, plastered with wet mud, shaking angry fists in his direction. He drove on, grinning.

Farther along, at a little village, he was told that he could not get through because the bridge below town had washed out. "We'll park your car all night for 50 cents, and you can get a room at the lodging house," suggested a friendly garage man. "High water carried off the top of the bridge. All's left is the frame. The highway gang'll be here to fix it tomorrow morning."

"Thanks," said the young man, wryly. "I don't like to be held up. They'll be worried at home. Guess there'd be no law against walking down to see it."

"No—go look for yourself! All the planking went down the creek. Only way anybody can cross is on the beams—might do that afoot, but not in any man's car."

The stream was as represented. Roily currents lapped at the heavy beams where the planking had rested. The observer walked across on the solid oaken log—it was hardly 20 feet. At the other side, he reached into his overcoat pocket and took out a carpenter's rule.

Carefully he measured from the center of one beam to the center of the other. He did the same at the opposite end of the bridge. Then he hurried back to the garage where he had left his car, and just as carefully measured the distance between the wheels.

To the astonishment of the gaping garage man, he then drove down to the stream and straight across, on the beams. He got home that night.

I TOLD my wife that story, once, and asked "You'd never want to ride with such a reckless driver, now would you?"

She shook her head. "Too risky. There's just one thing to do for a fellow like that . . . and I did it."

"Did what?" I grunted.

"Married him!"

FARMERS VOTE IN TOWNSHIPS

Each County District to Have Balloting Center on AAA Wheat Referendum.

Balloting places for the government wheat marketing quota referendum May 2 in Richland county will be set up in every township instead of five or six districts in the county, Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

A larger number of voting stations will be made available at the suggestion of state AAA officials, Taylor said. Only six voting places were used last year and the Richland county committee had planned to follow the same plan this time.

Farmers who will grow more than 15 acres of wheat this summer are eligible to participate in the referendum. A two-thirds majority vote nationally will be required for approval of the marketing quotas which limit the amount of wheat farmers sell.

The quotas were voted for the first time last spring. Ohio farmers voted against them then, but the western wheat states turned in an approval vote large enough to offset the Ohio result.

Taylor and other members of the county committee were busy today arranging voting places and choosing farmers to conduct the referendum.

Garden Club Has Meeting at Clingan Home

Hostess to the Linnaeus Garden club at her home on Vennum avenue Thursday was Mrs. Herman Clingan. Dessert-luncheon was served at small tables decorated with snapdragons and sweet peas. Mrs. Frank Glasgow discussed "Victory Gardens" and Mrs. S. R. Taylor reported on "Conservation."

The club decided to make hospital kits and fit them for soldiers. Mrs. William R. Lake was voted into the club as a new member. An all-day meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Germantown road, on May 8. There will be a field trip to study wild flowers.

Sunday School Class Meeting

Members of the Do-Be-There Sunday school class of the Ontario Community church held a meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Wuthrich. Miss Evelyn Taylor was the associate hostess. Fifteen members were in attendance. Following a short business session devotions were led by Miss Jane Shrader.

Miss Jean Milligan gave a review of a chapter of the study book, "Author of Liberty. Contests were played and prizes won by Miss Rhea Downs and Mrs. L. C. Stingel. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting. The next regular session will be held May 19 with the Misses Elizabeth and Evelyn Orewiler as hostesses.

NEEDLECRAFT CLUB.

Needlecraft club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy Crider, 402 Springmill street. The president, Mrs. Crider, had charge of the business session. A social time was enjoyed. Contests were won by Mrs. Myrtle Aungst and Mrs. Doris Robinson. Refreshments were served. Next meeting will be held May 4 at the home of Mrs. Charles Seeburger, 45 Wolfe avenue.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I made my decision about Jim Watson in what Mary calls "a split second." I know my father's reluctance to let any outside person share in his plans or activities, but Watson already had given us invaluable aid in the capture of the gangsters, and there was no question that we needed an extra guard on the journey down to New York. So I felt that I could second with enthusiasm the ecomium of the captain of the state troopers.

"I shall be very glad indeed to have him," I said. "Of course all his expenses will be paid. But can he go at a second's notice?"

"Oh, yes," the captain answered. "He's an old campaigner, and he'll buy whatever he needs in New York. He's pretty well fixed, and lives with a sister who doesn't worry about him. One of our boys will take her a message, so he won't have a thing on his mind but the trip. Would you like me to ask him about it?"

Back Through Warren.

"Yes, if you would, please," I said gratefully. "And, do you mind asking him to do something else for me?"

"Indeed no; glad to," he said. Then, urged by the chance of securing a few minutes of solitude in which I could again examine the carven ivory cube, which I had found in the hidden recess, I spoke rapidly.

"Now that these gangsters are all accounted for, isn't it possible to go back the way we came, through Warren, instead of going around the other way, as we had planned?"

"Perfectly possible," he assented. "In fact, it's much the best way for you. We shall have to go the other way, for it's the nearest way to the hospital where we want to take our man."

"Then," I went on, "if you agree, please ask Mr. Watson to go back to the cars, and have our driver and Mr. Branchman bring them up here. Mr. Branchman has the two men we first found, one of whom, I am sure, is the leader and brains of this particular undertaking. We shall have to add those two to the men you captured, and put them all in the big armored car of the gangsters."

Wants to See Impersonators.

"It will be a tight fit," the captain said with a grin, "but it won't hurt them, the rats. And I'm quite anxious to see those two now in Branchman's car. Watson says they were made up so well to impersonate old Diswell and his man that you could hardly tell 'em apart."

"It was a very clever job," I said.

"I want to see it," he said again. "But I think, if you don't mind, I'll have Branchman and your man drive past here when they come, and go into that hidden place in the underbrush that Watson knows, and when we get these birds into their own car, we'll drive it down there too, then take the two impersonators out of Branchman's car. No use having so many cars on the road down here. Nobody goes by here for hours at a time, but there's no use having the place look like the headquarters of a convention.

"A very wise precaution," I said. "Thank you so much for everything."

"Is there anything else you'd like me to do?" he asked.

I could not shriek, "Yes, get away and let me alone," as my racked nerves impelled me to do, for he had not wasted a second of time. So I managed to make my voice composed and plausible as I murmured, "Not another thing," thank you."

Gus Promises Secrecy.

"Then I'll leave you to your telephoning," he said, and when he had gone, Gus looked at me wistfully.

"You want me to go out doors too, Missis Graham," he said.

"Yes, Gus, if you please," I answered firmly. "I shall be perfectly all right, and you needn't go beyond the doorstep if you do not wish."

"I didn't mean to go any farther away than that," he said, then hesitated and let his curiosity get the better of his usual caution.

"Did you find what you was looking for?" he asked.

I masked my annoyance and answered truthfully, as the best way of keeping him quiet.

"Yes, I did, Gus," I said, "but I must ask you to say nothing about it."

"I'll never say a word," he promised as he went out, and with a sigh of relief I reached for the telephone and called my father at the Hotel Lansfield.

L'AMICI CLUB.

L'Amici club members held a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Villella, West Sixth street. Hearts was played and prizes of defense stamps awarded to Mrs. Patsy LaSusa and Mrs. Frank Brucato. Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Anthony Daley, Mrs. Mario Laycona, Mrs. Conrad Reale Mrs. Anthony Gregoria and Miss Mary Reale. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with spring flowers. The next meeting will be held May 6 at the home of Mrs Frank Brucato, Gerke avenue.

MISS EVELYN DuPONT

Mansfield women can secure advice on their problems of figure control by consulting Miss Evelyn DuPont, model and factory representative for Elaine of Hollywood brassieres, who is at the Montgomery Ward and company store today and tomorrow. The company which Miss DuPont represents has 24 types of brassieres on the market, one for every type of figure, However, the attractive, blond young saleswomen states that she is more interested in helping women with their problems than in just selling her product. Miss DuPont has been making these personal visits in eight states for the past two and one-half years.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 25.

While there may be much high pressure and energy expended in the direction of major objectives and cherished ambitions on this day, yet it may be well to be armed with resolution, perseverance, decisive action and plans in order to cope with obstacles, delays and determined opposition, from elders, strangers, females and possibly from the public or other organized group or corporate body. Tact, compromise and diplomacy may win out against stubborn, malicious antagonisms.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves unusually active and energetic in the attainment of important objectives or much desired ambitions, during the year, but they should be fortified by resolution, perseverance and practical and constructive programs and methods in order to overcome determined opposition and delays and obstacles, coming from old persons or institutions, from strange sources or from feminine antagonism. The public, or other groups, may withhold co-operation, but there should be influential friends ready to assist.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious, constructive, bold and determined, which it may need to overcome obstacles.

GARDENIA CLUB.

Mrs Bessie DeYarmon, 77 Greenwood avenue, was hostess to all members of the Gardenia club and one guest, Mrs. Ruth Wolf, Thursday. Business session was in charge of Mrs. Grace Shellenberger, president. Prize in bunco was won by Mrs. Howard Schuck. The hostess served a two-course luncheon at a long table decorated with a patriotic centerpiece. Each member received a favor in patriotic colors.

BIBLE CLUB.

Mary-Martha Bible club members held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. S. Little, Spring street. Ten members were in attendance. Mrs J D. Wilcox conducted the business session. Mrs. E. J. Kent led the devotions. Mrs. Charles Ray conducted the lesson study on the 28th chapter of Acts. The next regular meeting will be held May 7 at the home of Mrs. E J Kent, Parkwood boulevard. Mrs. George Hout will be in charge of the lesson study.

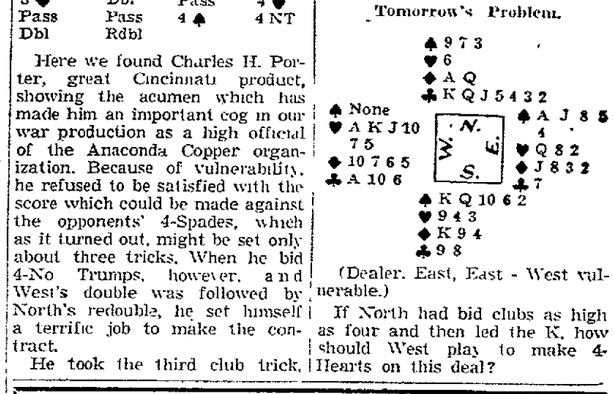
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

UNBLOCKING IS PRETTY

Some of the nicest plays in the game, either to make or to see, are those in which you have to throw away a high card deliberately in order to get it out of the way of lower-rank cards in the opposite hand. Many a contract cannot be made in any other way. It is especially spectacular if an ace has to be discarded, most especially if it is tossed upon not a winning, but a losing card in another suit.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♦	Dbl	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	4 ♠	4 NT
Dbl	Rdbl

Here we found Charles H. Porter, great Cincinnati product, showing the acumen which has made him an important cog in our war production as a high official of the Anaconda Copper organization. Because of vulnerability, he refused to be satisfied with the score which could be made against the opponents' 4-Spades, which as it turned out, might be set only about three tricks. When he bid 4-No Trumps, however, and West's double was followed by North's redouble, he set himself a terrific job to make the contract.

He took the third club trick, East having given a high-low signal, and then ran five hearts. This left dummy the diamond K-J and the spade K-Q-J, his own hand possessing the diamond A-4 and three little clubs West had held on to the spade A-9 and the diamond Q-10-6. And East two spades, two diamonds and the club J.

His only chance was to find two entries to the dummy, one so that he could use a spade to knock out the A, and another to get back in the dummy and score the last two spades. Knowing from the bidding that West had the spade A, and from the first three leads that he did not have the club J, also that West had only a singleton heart originally. West was marked as holding three diamonds, thereby making it almost sure he had the Q.

So he led the diamond 4 and finessed the J successfully. Next the spade K was led and the diamond A discarded. West won this, but then could only lead into North set-up spades and diamond K.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer. East, East - West vulnerable.)

If North had bid clubs as high as four and then led the K, how should West play to make 4-Hearts on this deal?

KNITTING CLUB.

British War Relief Knitting club met last evening at the home of Mrs. W. B. McLean, Sheridan avenue. Twenty members were in attendance. Yellow jonquils decorated the table when luncheon was served by Mrs. McLean and Mrs. W. R. Tawse. Mrs. W. F. McCartney will be hostess at her home, 346 West Fourth street, for a meeting on May 14.

CHAPTER XXXI

"Yes, of course. I know, but—"

Dr. Nolan pulled at his short gray beard. "I said I wouldn't be surprised if there were grounds for Louise's belief. What she gathered, or imagined, or saw, or knew, is the cause of her trouble, not a result of it. You have ascertained that Gordon did actually beat her rather often. That's something to go on."

"But, my lord, if it were true—"

Parris flushed. His feelings were running away with him.

"Mitchell!"

"Yes, sir."

"You had better understand your own feeling in this matter. Is it because a remote possibility touches your friend, Drake McHugh?"

"Yes, sir. I'm fully aware of that. I've been trying to keep an even keel."

"Pretty hard, sometimes. Now, see here. Gordon is dead. Whatever damage he may have done is done, and can't be undone. You can't do anything to him."

"When I think of even a remote possibility that Drake McHugh—"

"Mitchell, I want to get you free of this Gordon case in some way. I don't like it It isn't good for you. If Mrs. Gordon wants an ordinary, routine examination of Louise to determine her sanity, why that's our business, but these half-social, sub rosa tactics—it's not a good idea."

"Oh, she's convinced that Louise is practically herself again."

"There's another danger you haven't thought of — the obvious one. I'm surprised that you haven't thought of it"

"What is that?"

"Louise's attachment to you."

"What?"

"Why, it's plain as day. Just ordinary transference."

Parris sank back in his chair.

"Oh, my goodness."

"You see if she should come to feel that you're not co-operating with her any more against the memory of her father, she'd turn on you right away"

Parris nodded "Of course."

"So, my boy, I guess we'd better begin watching out a little I think if you could persuade Mrs Gordon to take Louise away for a while—wouldn't do Louise a particle of good, but it might be pretty lucky for you."

Dr. Nolan continued to look speculatively and perhaps a little absently at Parris Parris had more than fulfilled Dr. Nolan's hopes, even in this short time. The young doctor's winning tiick of deference to the age and experience of his colleagues had endeared him to the whole staff. Dr. Nolan was pleased Kings Row too, was beginning to hear highly favorable things about Dr. Mitchell, but the more they heard, the less they saw of him. Someone said that he was a fine pianist. Everyone had heard more or less about his devotion to the unfortunate Drake McHugh. It was thought very fine of Dr Mitchell to maintain a loyal friendship for a boyhood acquaintance.

Just lately there had been a bit of gossip about Louise Gordon. Kings Row knew that Louise had had a very bad nervous breakdown. Dr. Mitchell frequently walked in the late afternoon with Louise, and it was noticeable that Louise had "come out" amazingly.

One startling piece of information emerged from Louise's chatter. It concerned the Towers. It puzzled Parris a little that Louise should be able to recall so much of what her mother had said years ago of other people. He brought himself quickly to attention at the first mention of Dr. Tower and Cassie. Then gradually he pieced together the casual fragments. He was unable to recall precisely the words of Dr. Tower's diary at this point, but he was certain now that the mysterious person or persons who had blocked his purpose of working at the asylum had been the Gordons.

In the fall Louise had an attack of bronchitis, and Dr. Saunders, one of Kings Row's older doctors, was called. Dr. Saunders happily ended Parris' worries about Louise. He advised Mrs. Gordon to take Louise to Florida for the winter, and when his own advices were added, Mrs. Gordon agreed.

Parris did not realize how tired he was until Dr. Nolan ordered a reorganization of his schedule. There were times when he felt too much outside of the life Drake and Randy shared in the little white house. They were happy; their business was successful.

Parris and Randy walked out toward the Old Cemetery one afternoon. Randy was troubled, but he waited for her to speak. They crossed the stone stile and came presently to a small square enclosed with evergreen that reminded Parris of the thickets where he used to play with Renee. Severe granite slabs in the square had only names and dates: ALEXANDER Q. TOWER and CASSANDRA TOWER.

Parris was surprised that the plot was so carefully tended, with some sort of shiny-leafed vine covering the ground.

He looked at Randy. She colored and looked a little embarrassed.

"I've been taking care of these graves, Parris Drake told me that Cassie and her father meant a lot to you."

They went back through the little green valley and across the cemetery to the slope where the sunshine was warmest.

"Well, Randy."

"I don't know how to begin, Parris. I've been hearing some stories that I don't understand—so I thought I'd better let you know."

Parris felt a curious chill of apprehension.

"Well, go ahead."

"It seems that talk sort of runs around and around and takes on first one meaning, then another. When I first heard Louise's name mentioned, they said you were 'going with' Louise."

Parris nodded. He remembered his talk with Dr. Nolan.

"Then came the old stories again."

"Just—what were the old stories, Randy?"

"It was said that Louise said her father performed unnecessary operations just — well, just because he liked to, and that he did too many of them without chloroform."

"Um." Parris nodded again.

"People began to remember. You ought to hear the long lists of operations Dr. Gordon did without an anesthetic! It's always the same story. The patient's heart was weak."

"Strange!"

"But Parris — have you ever counted up the number of terribly disfigured people he left behind him?"

She had gone deathly pale.

"Drake!" she whispered. "Drake!"

Parris held perfectly still. Randy shook his arm violently.

"Parris!"

"Yes, Randy?"

"You've got to tell me!"

He shook his head.

"Then the stories are true?"

"Listen, Randy: there are strange cases in medical history —like this But it doesn't follow that every operation Dr. Gordon performed was or could have been unnecessary. Do you know any of the details of Drake's injury?"

"He wasn't run over, if that's what you mean."

"He wasn't?"

"No. He was caught by the train — some cars were being switched. He was under the car —between two of them. As near as I know he was sort of—I guess you'd have to say pinched by a wheel that didn't pass over him. The cars sort of reversed and he was caught in the same way on the other side. But he wasn't run over."

"Strange. I thought he was. He never talked to me about it."

"He doesn't know."

"I see."

"Parris. I've got something else to tell you. I made some inquiries —after I heard those terrible stories this winter. Sam Winters helped Dr. Gordon."

"Yes, I know."

"So I got Sam Winters to talking about it. He said—"

Randy stopped and twisted her hands together.

"Go on, Randy. You have to get it said."

"Sam Winters said Dr. Gordon was a wonderful doctor and must have seen something he himself—Sam, I mean — couldn't understand. He said it looked to him like Drake was just badly bruised."

"Oh, Randy! I can't quite believe that!"

"Sam was sure of one thing—"

"Yes?" Parris said the one questioning word with difficulty.

"Sam was positive that there were no bones broken!"

Parris straightened himself.

"Now, listen. You've got to listen carefully. Sam Winters' testimony doesn't mean a thing."

"Are you telling me the truth, Parris?"

"Yes, Randy. Absolutely. Dr. Gordon must have done a crack job, or Drake wouldn't have lived. We have Drake, and Drake is in a way adjusted. It's all over and done with. Dr. Gordon is dead. We've got to forget it."

"Parris!"

Showdown Looms Between Lewis, Murray

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Events seem to be developing rapidly towards a major showdown between the Japanese and the British in the Indian ocean, and that means a great naval battle.

Japan's control of the eastern Indian ocean, and the danger that this domination may be extended throughout that vast sea, is one of the grave threats to the Allied cause. The Middle East, whose shores are washed by the Indian ocean, has been designated by Hitler as the possible meeting ground of the Axis forces. Should the Japs and Nazis manage to join hands there it might mean a thirty-year war.

There are two new signs pointing to a possible major engagement in the Indian ocean. One is the indication that the Allies may be preparing to take over the strategic French island of Madagascar, to keep the Japs from occupying it. The second is a tiny news item which suggests huge possibilities.

This latter is the report in French Vichy that a British flotilla passed through the Strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean. There is no satisfactory explanation of where these fighting ships are going.

In view of the emergency in the Indian ocean one can't help feeling that this flotilla may well be taking a short cut through the Mediterranean and the Suez canal to help deal with the Japanese fleet.

BROADWAY

Meet the Girls.

(They Sing for Their Supper)

A couple of seasons ago Rodgers and Hart dashed off a little ditty in which they sagely advised: "Sing for your supper and you'll get breakfast; songbirds always eat — if their song is sweet to hear."

And they weren't kidding, brother. They were telling the true.

Just take a look at the girls who sing.

Kilgallen

Dinah Shore, of the slant brown eyes and the heavy brown bob and the wedding-ring waist is "hottest" of the you know all canaries now; about her and her curves and her "Yes, My Darling Daughter."

Grace Moore is a lass who does very well in the aria division at the Met and other coliseums of the clawsses.

Ethel Merman knocks the hats off the top row in the balcony when she lifts her voice in gentle song.

And Gladys Swarthout illustrates a very profitable combination of glamor and larynx.

Oh, they all get breakfast. If they want, they get breakfast in bed.

Then there's Joan Edwards, mistress of a swing technique that has swung her high up in the money brackets. Her uncle is the famous Gus Edwards, and her dad is an important figure in the music publishing business. Both of them had big ideas for Joan when she was an undergraduate at Hunter college.

"We'll launch you in show business — the right way," they said, "as soon as you graduate."

Joanie gave them the fond brush. "No relatives, please," she said.

When graduation came she missed a summa cum laude because she had flunked in English 22-A. So she took a holiday — a graduation present to herself—in Florida, and came back with a tan and a new song she had written; a swing version of "Man and Superman," by an Irishman named George Bernard Shaw. Without his permission, of course.

She took the piece to a publisher. He listened to her sing it, tossed the music aside, and said, "I know a dozen bandleaders who are looking for a gal like you—gimme the phone!"

So the wit tagged Shaw really put Joanie into show business, not the great discoverer of young talent, Gus Edwards. Oh, you want to know how Joan came to write "Man and Superman" in musical notes? Well, it was this way:

That English course that flunked her out of honors was "George Bernard Shaw and his dramatic sequences."

And Kate Smith—what about Kate?

This buxom songstress is a Tritoness among the minnows when it comes to delivering a lyric of the glad hand kind—you know, the You're So Wonderful, Hello-Baby type of tune. Kate learned the beaming delivery in her 'teen days when she sang in Washington boites and bistros for next to nothing a night as Kate Smith money goes.

When she got her big chance in "Flying High," that beam delivery really sold her. Kate went on and up, in radio and in the public taste, until she became the top girl singer of the nation, financially speaking.

Of course, there are things about Kate that throw Tin Pan Alley and the wise boys of Broadway—for instance, her choice of material when she sings at a rare benefit. Not beam stuff, which she does better than anyone else, but something like "Blues in the Night," which you think of as Dinah Shore's trade mark

The boys around Broadway don't get it. But bankrolls never lie, so Katie knows best.

She can have breakfast in bed on hers.

Mary Martin has a figure to go with her tricky voice, but let's stick to her voice. But then, you can't can you, because if Mary didn't have that figure she wouldn't have been wrapped in a pink chemise and a fur jacket and allowed to sing Cole Porter's big hit, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." And if she hadn't sung that song in a way to set the critics spinning extravagant words of praise, Paramount wouldn't have signed her for a picture.

It was funny about that picture. if you believe the Hollywood legend. Somebody out there had a great idea: do something different with Mary "Let's take this girl who swings while she strip-teases—and let her sing opera!" The yes-men said "terrific" and "colossal" and "stupendous," and that was how it was done. An epic about Victor Herbert, and Mary sang his classic straight. And she wasn't funny at all—she was good. Or stupendous or colossal or terrific, if your vocabulary comes from Hollywood.

And why not? Before Mary came to New York, she was prima donna at the St. Louis Municipal Opera company. But no one had ever told that to the producer, so he had a new kind of hit on his hands and a new star.

Nice accident?

FLOOD THREAT RECEDING IN DENVER AREA

Hundreds of Families Driven to Public Buildings By Swollen River.

(By International News Service)

DENVER—Hundreds of Denver families who spent most of the night huddled in public buildings and at the homes of friends were notified today that the swollen Platte river is slowly receding after giving the Rocky mountain west's largest city one of its worst flood scares.

Police announced that the level of the stream had dropped six inches and that "the danger is virtually over."

An estimated 15,000 persons had been warned by police to evacuate homes in the "lowlands" along the banks of the stream, but fears of a disastrous flood quieted when an expected high-water crest failed to develop this morning.

Nearly 200 persons were removed to the municipal auditorium and others crowded into school buildings to "wait out" the rising waters. Many returned to their homes later, however, when informed that the danger was passing.

The Platte rose at one time to within a few inches of the top of its retaining walls, but soon dropped and the long-awaited flood crest slowly diminished as it neared the city. Police announced that even should a slight rise occur now it would not cause major damage.

The city was constantly on the alert during the night as 61 police cars raced through residential areas along the river with sirens screaming to warn citizens to evacuate their homes. Rowboats from city parks were commandeered for emergency use and the entire police force and newly-organized civilian defense units were called into service.

However, a late check revealed that few sections of the city had been reached by any overflow from the river, although some farm lands along its banks had been inundated.

FOUND DEAD

Ashland Woman Took Own Life, Coroner Reports.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Floy Maxheimer, 40, was found dead in bed at her home here yesterday. County Coroner Dr. George Emery said the woman had taken her life.

The coroner said her wrists had been slashed with a razor and part of her head blown away by shotgun charge. The body was found by Basil Crawford, a boarder, when he arrived home from work.

A life-long resident of Ashland county, she is survived by a son, Harold H., of Massillon; her father, J. Z. Likes, of Ashland; four brothers, Alva, and Clarence, of near Ashland, Ralph, of Redhaw, and Ray of Sandusky, and a sister, Mrs. Helen Shick, of Savannah.

Funeral services were to be held at 2:30 p. m., today at the Denbow-Bear funeral home. Rev. S. S. Davis, pastor of the Evangelical church will officiate. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

CONGRESS FIRM ON LABOR ACT

Demands for Showdown Are Heard Regardless of Stand Taken By FDR.

WASHINGTON — Demands for a showdown on the 40-hour week and wartime restrictions on labor activities persisted in congress today with strong likelihood they would be pressed regardless of how President Roosevelt deals with the subject in his message next week.

With widely-varied proposals for labor legislation pending on a half-dozen different fronts, belief strengthened on Capitol Hill that the chief executive, in his drive to stem the mounting cost of living would:

1. Lay down a general war labor policy, but oppose changes in statutes outlining labor's rights with the argument that industrial harmony and maximum production could be achieved best through co-operation.

2. Take steps to prevent blanket wage increases—possibly by issuing a directive order to the war labor board—but leave open the possibility of individual pay boosts and those made necessary by any further rise in living costs.

3. Stand firmly against suspension of the 40-hour week, maintaining it is not now linking work hours in war industries and that eliminations of time and one-half pay after 40 hours would necessitate widespread upward adjustment of regular wages.

The president's advisors were reported in disagreement on the wage stabilization program.

LEGISLATORS ASK EXPLANATION OF AUTO RATION REGULATIONS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Confronted with a claim that some 1942 model automobiles might make their first appearance on the streets as late as 1972, the house banking committee called on the office of price administration today for an explanation of its car rationing regulations.

The decision to ask OPA to explain what some committee members said were "very complex" regulations came after an automobile dealer spokesman said some dealers estimated that under current regulations the present supply of new cars might last as long as 30 years.

In some cases, said Charles W. Bishop, counsel for the National Automobile Dealers association, local rationing boards were so confused by the regulations that rather than take a chance on violating them they often turned down worthy applications for new car purchases.

OPA representatives were expected to be the last heard by the committee before it acts on legislation to authorize the RFC to give financial aid to dealers, either by making loans or purchasing their unsold cars after 18 months.

Late yesterday the committee heard Jesse Jones, commerce secretary and RFC head, explain plans under which he said the government would purchase all stocks of new automobiles, tires and trailers in the hands of dealers or manufacturers desiring to sell them.

Under this program, Jones told the committee, dealers would be able to dispose of their stocks without a loss, and later could reacquire the products from the RFC at the cost to the RFC plus four per cent interest.

A similar plan for the relief of domestic refrigerator producers, he said, also had been worked out but would not apply to dealers because their stocks have not been subjected to rationing.

SNITCHERS HIT

Suspension Orders Directed at Black Market Firms.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The war production board today cracked down on "black market" operations in scarce chemicals, which it charged have resulted in profits of more than 100 per cent to two New York firms.

The WPB issued suspension orders directed against the Acme Chemical Co., Inc., and Rona Chemicals, both of New York City.

According to the orders, priority assistance was extended to the Acme Chemical Co., to purchase ascetic anhyride and salicylic acid for manufacture of aspirin. It was charged that Rona Chemical acting as an agent for Acme, sold 8,160 pounds of the ascetic anhydride and approximately 800 of the salicylic acid.

"So after I told him how big and strong he is, did he propone! NO! He enlisted!"

With the salvage for victory program going ahead at full steam, W. C. Statler, city engineer, is wondering whether some of Mansfield's old dumping grounds might not hold tons of metal which might be used for wartime production. Statler is making a check with several of the city's industrial plants to learn where their scrap metal was dumped during past years. The city engineer became interested after the excavation of a sewer line in the southern end of the city uncovered an old dumping ground which yielded approximately $100 worth of scrap metal.

GETS ESTATE

FDR Inherits Bulk of Million Left By His Mother.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—(INS)—President Roosevelt was bequeathed the bulk of a $1,089,872 estate left by his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, a state transfer tax appraisal showed today.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who died at her Hyde Park home last September, left the president the bulk of the estate after stipulating that trust funds in equal amounts be set up from one-tenth of the estate for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and her five grandchildren.

St. James Church in Hyde Park and the three executors, the president, Arthur Morris and Henry T. Hackett, were each left $5,000.

Major assets of the estate were securities valued at $939,993, which included stocks and bonds in 100 important corporations.

FIGHT SEEN AT OCTOBER CONVENTION

Ousting of Vice President of UMW Hinted as Miners Withhold Payments.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Some of the labor movement's best-informed sources were conceding today the inevitability of a showdown between John L. Lewis and his estranged "right arm," Philip Murray, culminating not only in Murray's probable displacement as vice president of the United Mine workers but in an attempt to expel him from membership as well.

Among significant recent developments were these:

1. Three top officials of the United Mine workers (CIO) told Murray in a letter the union probably would do some "housecleaning" at its October convention.

2. The miners continued to withhold per capita tax payments to the CIO, which Murray heads, while asking repayment of about $1,660,000 advanced to the CIO in its fledgling days when Lewis was its chief. The overdue per capita tax now totals about $60,000.

3. CIO officers replied with a dun for the per capita payments and declared that while "all workers throughout the nation owe a deep debt to the United Mine Workers of America, this debt cannot be measured in dollars." They expressed the opinion the mine workers "did not and do not consider" the money advanced for organization purpose as a debt to be repaid in dollars and cents.

The "housecleaning" suggestion was interpreted widely as a threat of expulsion from membership, inasmuch as the miners do not choose their officers at conventions. Lewis has the constitutional power to remove Murray from his $18,000 a year job as vice president "for insubordination or just and sufficient cause."

United Mine workers' sources already were speaking of John O'Leary of Pittsburgh as the next vice president.

Expulsion of Murray, authoritative sources agree, would mean an organic split between the United Mine workers and the CIO, and hence a third labor movement. The affiliation is little more than nominal now.

Friends of Murray said he would fight vigorously any attempt to deprive him of his life-long membership in the Miners' union, in which he has a large personal following. Whether he would fight to retain the office he has held for 22 years is less certain. Murray would not discuss it.

The first constitutional convention of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, opening in Cleveland on May 19, is expected to spotlight Murray's strength in the labor movement. He is chairman of the SWOC, which probably will become the United Steel Workers of America. Informed persons say he will become its president.

Henderson Says U. S. Hammering Japs With Autos

WASHINGTON —(AP)— United States forces "are hammering the Japs with autos," Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared in a radio address last night.

"The Japs killed our boys on Bataan with shrapnel scraps some of which were marked with the name of an automobile manufacturer," he said.

"Tokyo was bombed a few days ago with steel that might have been used to make 1942 automobiles. We are hammering the Japs with our automobiles — not the scrap from old jaloppies, but the new steel that might have been 1943 models."

It was the first statement by a government official that American bombs had fallen on Tokyo. Thus far the war and navy departments have not confirmed Japanese reports of the bombing of Japanese cities last Saturday.

and an important port of embarkation for men and supplies for the eastern front, but asserted that British planes had "attempted" to raid Berlin for the first time since Nov. 7.

The Luftwaffe, attempting to exact revenge for the destructive night-and-day offensive, bombed several places of southwest England and southwest Wales, killing at least 16 persons and causing damage.

Two Nazi planes were shot down over England and the British admitted the loss of four planes in the attack on Rostock, which is 60 miles from Leubeck, another recent target of the RAF.

On the Russian battlefront the Soviets reported new important successes at Bryansk, key center 200 miles southwest of Moscow, where the Red army was said to have broken inside the German defense belt in a continuation of the first big battle of the spring.

Thirty German counter-attacks were said to have been crushed and thousands of Nazis killed.

There was heavy fighting on the Leningrad front where 1,400 Germans were said to have been killed in two days and 51 Nazi planes downed.

Beaverbrook Asks Attack to Aid Reds

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Lord Beaverbrook, British lease-lend co-ordinator in Washington, today urged a second front be established on the European continent to help Russia send Hitler to his waterloo before the end of the year.

In a fighting speech before the 56th annual convention of the American Newspapers Publishers association, the London newspaper publisher praised the stand of the Red army and described Stalin as the "master of tactics" who will eventually defeat the Nazi military machine.

Lord Beaverbrook said the second front should be opened "somewhere along the 2,000 miles of coastline now held by the Germans" and warned that "if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, never will such a chance come to us again."

Declaring that Britain was now well equipped in guns, ammunition and other necessary weapons to launch such an offensive, Lord Beaverbrook said:

"How admirably Britain is now equipped in weapons of war for directing such an attack on Germany, I well know.

"Now the day has come when in almost every quarter in Britain the cry goes up, 'attack!' 'Attack in support of Russia!' For the passion to set up a western fighting front in aid of the Russians is deep in the hearts of all our people."

Hitler Purge of Arms Industry Reported

LONDON—(U.P.)—British sources reported today that Adolf Hitler was purging leaders of the German armament industry because of their failure to increase production sufficiently to offset rising American war production.

The reports of removal and punishment of the chiefs of the Nazi arms industry came from authoritative quarters, but the source of the information was not disclosed.

It was asserted that Hitler had ordered the arrest and imprisonment of Heinrich Koppenberg, manager of the Junkers Aircraft works at Dessau. Koppenberg was said to have been sent to the dreaded Nazi concentration camp at Dachau.

The reports received here said that Hitler had ordered the armaments chiefs to achieve an 80 per cent increase in German production, which probably had suffered to a limited extent due to the death of Dr. Fritz Todt, the late minister for armaments and munitions and builder of the Seigfried line.

HEARINGS SET

Discussion of Law Simplification Will Start Monday.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The schedule for three days of hearings before the administrative law commission to determine how far the state should go in simplifying the practice and procedure of all licensing agencies was announced today.

The hearings will open in the senate chamber at the statehouse in Columbus at 10 a. m. Monday. Don C. Power, vice chairman of the commission will preside.

27-29 District Senate Race In State Political Spotlight

in the state senate after the Democrats lost two by death.

Meanwhile, Democrats started the ball rolling in the 17th district last night at a meeting of central and executive committee chairmen with State Chairman J. Freer Bittinger at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The six counties in the congressional district were represented.

The committeemen followed the custom of allocating state committee posts to counties under their plan of rotating the jobs every two years to give all six counties an equal chance.

Ashland county will choose the district's Democratic state central committeeman this time and Bittinger is slated for the job, party heads indicated. E. B. Kallmerton, Mansfield, has been committeeman for the past two years.

The district leaders gave Richland county the right to select the state executive committeewoman. Mrs. Mae Lex, Mansfield, is in line for the post, party leaders here said.

Knox county will get the central committeewoman post, while it was agreed that Delaware county shall select a state central committeeman.

The state central and executive committee members usually are elected at the primaries without opposition since county organizations throughout the district generally agree on candidates.

SENIORS START PRACTICE FOR 3-ACT COMEDY

Annual Class Production To Be Staged May 7 at High School Auditorium.

Rehearsals are under way for the annual senior class play, to be presented Thursday evening, May 7, at the Senior high school auditorium.

The three-act comedy, "The Joy of Living," written by Dorothy and Herbert Fields, appeared here last year in the movies. The fast-moving story revolves around the home of a one-time queen of the stage and the entire action takes place in the living room of a hotel suite in New York city.

Jean Herring, William Dietrichson, Durward Burns, Marilee Sword, Helen Ann Troll, Kenneth Lang, Norman Wilcox, Justin Seiler, Joe Brumfield, Wanda Hess, Kenneth Smith, Diana Howard, Jean Porter, Gracia Derr, Edward Arlin, Gene Oswalt and Morton Frankel compose the cast.

The production staff headed by E. L. Heasley, faculty director, includes Anne Lersch, business manager, Nick Weamer and Bruce Graves, advertising managers, and Marianne Linn, prompter.

Kathryn Wood will be in charge of the properties, assisted by Janet Hemphill, Jean Kelly, William Clark and William Wheatley. Kathryn Lannard is chairman of the ushers group.

Rabbits Thrive After Jackknife Caesarian Birth

FRESNO, Cal. —(INS)— Fresno's quintuplets were doing nicely following a jacknife operation that saved their lives.

They are five tiny jack rabbits who owe their lives to a caesarean operation performed by H. C. Carpenter, Mrs. Carpenter, and a jacknife.

The operation was not performed until it was nearly too late, but care in its performance brought success.

"The tiny rabbits are doing nicely, but they do not care very much for canned milk. We feed them every four hours with two drops each of canned milk," Mr. Carpenter said.

Mr. Carpenter found the mother rabbit while hunting near his home. The rabbit had been shot through the head, and it was feared that an operation would be unsuccessful.

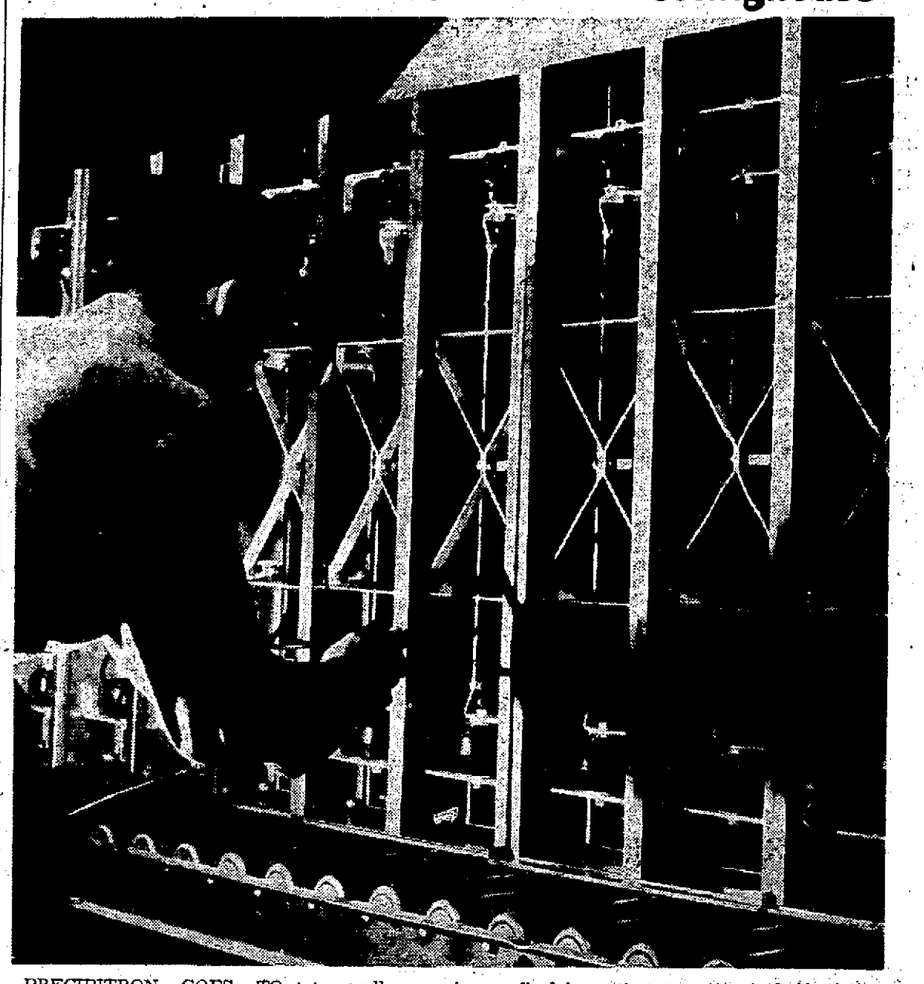
Provides 'Laundered Air' at Westinghouse



PRECIPITRON GOES TO WAR—Before shipment to the company's plant here, these air cleaning units, called Precipitron cells, are given a final inspection at the Westinghouse Cleveland works. Capable of trapping up to 95 per cent of the atmosphere's load of dust, dirt and smoke particles, the electric cleaners will guard the production of binoculars in the Mansfield plant.

* * * * *

BINOCULAR DEPARTMENT TO BE KEPT DIRT AND DUST PROOF

Marking the first application in this section of the Precipitron, a comparatively new development, the section of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant in which the precision manufacture of army binoculars will be centered will have "laundered" air—in which dirt and dust particles are virtually "electrocuted."

George F. Begoon, of the Westington Cleveland plant, revealed in that city that the new cleaners—box-like metal cells about the size of up-ended suitcases, have been enlisted in the present war effort to assist in manufacture of bombsights, binoculars, tanks and guns, and in preparation of blood plasma.

The Precipitron, introduced five years ago by the Westinghouse Research laboratories following a long period of development, removes up to 95 per cent of the dirt particles in the air.

Importance of the machine's use in the plant here, and in seven other plants in the country in which binoculars, range finders and submarine periscopes are built, is that clean air prevents the collection of dust on precision lenses during assembly.

Precipitrons are in use in a number of arsenals and ordnance plants. Other units guard against the contamination of blood plasma used to give transfusions to wounded soldiers. At one Ohio laboratory where the plasma is extracted from donated blood, a cleaner supplies 1,200 cubic feet of air a minute to a "room within a room" in which the plasma is dried and bottled for shipment to the fighting fronts.

In operation, dust particles enter one end of a Precipitron cell and are given a positive electrical charge as they pass near fine wires which are charged with electricity at 12,000 volts. Behind the wires is a series of parallel steel plates, charged with negative electricity, which draws the dust particles out of the air and holds them.

THEATERS

South Sea Musical.

Romance, comedy and music against a South Sea Island background are combined in the technicolor musical, "Son of The Islands," with Betty Grable, Victor Mature and Jack Oakie in the leading roles. Opening Saturday at the Ohio the picture deals with the efforts of Betty Grable and her screen father Thomas Mitchell to keep the encroachment of civilization away from their outpost in the Pacific. When Vic Mature arrives and romance buds civilization is forgotten by Miss Grable, Billy Gilbert and George Barbier are cast in the picture that is filled with native singing and dancing streamlined to the 20th century.

College Comedy.

Adapted from the successful stage play by the same name, "The Male Animal," a football comedy opening Saturday at the Madison features Henry Fonda, Olivia De Havilland and Joan Leslie. The story deals with an enthusiastic group of alumni from a midwestern college who use every campus anniversary as an excuse to get back on the scene. Henry Fonda plays a young college professor with a fun-loving wife whose interest in a former schoolmate doesn't please her husband. Miss De Havilland appears as the wife and Miss Leslie enacts the wife's sister. Others in the cast are Eugene Pallettee and Hattie McDaniel.

Air Thriller.

"Bombay Clipper," with William Gargan and Irene Hervey is showing at the Ritz. The "3 Mesquiteers" are featured in the second picture, "Raiders of The Range."

Ozark Comedy.

The Weaver brothers and Elviry return to the Park screen Saturday in "Shepherd of The Ozarks," the story of a family in a backwoods village whose peaceful existence is shattered by complications which develop when a deposit of aluminum-bearing bauxite ore is discovered in the area. As in all the Weavers' previous pictures, comedy and music predominate in the film that shows James J. Maliney in the role of an unscrupulous tycoon who wants to buy the ore from the Weavers and sell it at an immense profit. Marilyn Hare and Frank Albertson provide the romance. Joe E. Brown in "Shut My Big Mouth," is the second picture.

Navy Musical.

"Navy Blues" with Ann Sheridan, Jack Oakie, Martha Raye, and Jack Haley is the attraction today only at the Majestic. William Boyd is featured in "Stick to Your Guns," the co-feature.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Roy Vaughn's political conscience is forcing him to toss away honors in the sports world these days with the regularity of clock work.

Seems just about every organization to which Vaughn belongs wants him for an officer, even as in days gone by, but Roy insists his work as city councilman won't let him spend the time on sports to which he has been accustomed.

* * *

Last night Vaughn gave up the job of secretary-treasurer of the Commercial "B" league after 12 years in that office.

A week ago he turned down an office in the Charles Mill Sportsmen's club.

Other organizations are hereby warned he'll turn down any other offices that may be offered him.

* * *

"If I'm going to do a job, I want to do it right," Vaughn told me last night. "And I haven't time any more to do all the jobs right that I've been undertaking. And my first duty is to the one job right to which the voters of Mansfield elected me."

* * *

I can testify that Vaughn has done his sports jobs right in the past. A harder worker, a more conscientious worker, and more interested worker in any project he happens to be backing I haven't found.

The sports world of Mansfield is losing a good man to politics. Maybe politics can stand the gain. I wouldn't know about that subject.

Dutch Leonard Injured

Washington Hurler Has Broken Ankle.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The first serious casualty of the major league baseball season is Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators, whose luck seems to be going from bad to worse.

* * *

The round-faced righthander stumbled while crossing first base after running out a grounder in the second inning of yesterday's tussle with the Boston Red Sox and after he had been carried off the field his injury was found to be a broken ankle.

* * *

This means the big fellow who baffled the American league with his knuckle ball for the last couple of years, winning 18 games in 1941, will be out of action indefinitely and Washington's hopes of struggling toward the top of the second division received a setback.

The Senators won yesterday, 10-5, but the game itself was not a pleasing spectable—there were 26 hits evenly divided and Boston made six errors to Washington's two.

The day proved more cheery for the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians, both of whom were as fearful of their pitching in the south as Washington was hopeful.

Hal White, Detroit rookie righthander, pitched his second straight shutout, 9-0, on five hits against the Chicago White Sox. The Tigers tore into old Ted Lyons for 16 hits.

For Cleveland Jim Bagby acquired his third straight victory, 9-2, over the St. Louis Browns. Bagby gave nine hits, but finished with a string of six scoreless innings.

The New York Yankees were donated a 6-4 decision by the Philadelphia Athletics, who outhit the world champions 9 to 8 but made six errors. Joe Gordon came through with a single when the Yanks had the bases loaded in the eighth and knocked in two runs for the margin of victory.

Similarly the Brooklyn Dodgers were helped to a 9-5 triumph at Boston by three errors and a lot of lax play that didn't show up in the box score. Each team made 10 hits and seven pitchers saw service in the melee. Pete Reiser contributed a two-run homer.

The Cincinnati Reds staged their biggest rally of the year to score five runs in the seventh inning and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3. John Vander Meer pitched five-hit ball.

* * *

Lou Novikoff, the big bust of the Chicago Cubs last year, "busted" a sixth-inning home run to decide a pitching duel between Bill Lee and Max Lanier in favor of the Cubs, 2-1, over the St. Louis Cardinals. Each team made seven hits.

The New York Giants continued their timely hitting to down the Phils, 5-2. They made nine hits, two less than the tailenders.

Penn Relays Draw Stars

Nearly 3,000 Athletes Perform in Big Meet.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Most of the nation's top-flight track and field athletes took over Franklin Field today in the 48th unveiling of the Penn Relays—the first major merry-go-round of the outdoor season.

* * *

Nearly 3,000 college and high school athletes are entered in the two-day, 74-event program which features, like last year, the great stretch duels between Leslie MacMitchell and Campbell Kane, anchor men for the crack New York university and Indiana teams.

* * *

A distinct military atmosphere dominates, this year's carnival with a score of prominent athletes, now in service, entered. Among them are Lieut. John Woodruff, former Pitt and Olympic half-miler, Ensign Bob Peoples, American javelin champion from Southern California, and Lieutenant Glenn Funk of the Marine Corps, former Nebraska distance star.

In addition, all service men in uniform will be admitted free.

Redlegs Seek Fourth Victory

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds endeavor to achieve their fourth victory of the 1942 season today, just to show, if nothing else, that they haven't played their best ball yet.

* * *

The victory, if Ray Starr gets it for them, would be their second in a row over the Pirates who are pitching Lloyd Dietz, a former Red who beat Cincinnati in the second game of the year.

* * *

Yesterday's 5-3 win was, by and large, a semi-hitless affair for the Reds, who made only seven safeties off Johnny Lanning and Nick Strincevich. However, they managed to make five good for as many runs in the seventh inning.

ARMY-NAVY GAME STAYS IN PHILLY

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—The annual Army-Navy football classic today was scheduled to be played in Philadelphia's municipal stadium through 1945.

A contract, providing that should any of its games be cancelled an additional year be added to the agreement, was signed yesterday. The present contract expires with the game scheduled for this fall.

The 1942 game will be the 25th of the West Point and Annapolis teams in Philadelphia. The classic annually attracts 100,000 fans.

Haley Heads Pin League

Named President of Commercial B Loop.

Commercial "B" league bowlers gathered round the banquet table last night at Lee's Tavern on the Ashland road, divided the season's prize money and elected officers for next season.

Louie Haley was named president of the league, succeeding Leo Yuncker while George Gump was elected to succeed Roy Vaughn as secretary-treasurer.

Top prize money went to the champion Mansfield Printing quintet, and also to the Ringside Nite Club for high match, and for high game. Leo Yuncker rolled high individual total and Vern Jones had high game for the season.

Ed Henrich led the averages with 193.2, while eight keglers wound up the season over the league limit of 185.

Shelby Opens Grid Drills

Unscheduled Football Practice Started.

SHELBY—Although not set up on the athletic program for this spring, spring football practice and baseball was being started at Shelby high school this week.

School officials had announced that there would be no spring football practice but reconsidered because a number of the players will be working this fall when early fall practice would have been scheduled as has been done in the past.

The candidates held a recent meeting and asked if the spring practice could not be held. Most of the players will be working this summer and will not be able to report for practice this fall until the schools re-open in September.

Bradley Horse Won't Start

Bless Me's Showing Ends Derby Hopes.

By MARC PURDUE

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley, only thoroughbred owner with a record of four Kentucky Derby victories, will not be represented in the renewal of the historic race at Churchill Downs May 2.

This announcement by Trainer Jimmy Smith was something of a blow to bluegrass sentimentalists who have a big soft spot in their hearts for the colonel's colors, but it scarcely was a surprise after the performance of Bless Me, his only Derby candidate, yesterday in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland.

The 83-year-old colonel, who watched the event, had announced previously Bless Me's showing would determine his chances for a Derby run.

When the Bradley colt ran second by three and a half lengths to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out, it was apparent he had dropped out of the Derby field.

Smith explained that Bless Me's effort wasn't "what we had hoped for."

Shut Out carned a net of $10,042 when he galloped across the finish line ahead of Bless Me and a full seven lengths in front of Hal Price Headley's Equinox, only other horse in the race.

Mrs. Whitney's Greentree stable's Derby stock went soaring again with this victory. Devil Diver, its other leading Derby candidate, was unable to start because of a minor cut on a leg.

Cleveland Team Hits 2939 Total

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The J. & J. Parking team of Cleveland blasted out a 2939 count on games of 1009, 972 and 958 last night to steal the shift honors in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Broadvue Recreations, another Cleveland entry, also cracked the 2900 circle with a 2907 total on games of 856, 1036 and 1015.

Tony Kristoff of Lorain bowled 670 in the team event, 620 in the doubles and 616 in the singles for a 1906 aggregate in the all-events column. His was the first 1900 total in nearly two weeks.

The tournament's five top pacesetters in each division remain unchanged.

MILLNER ADDED TO IRISH GRID STAFF

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(U.P.)—Wayne Millner, Washington Redskin end and former all American football player at Notre Dame, succeeded John Druze today as coach of Notre Dame's ends and tackles.

Druze, former Fordham captain, resigned recently to enlist in the navy's physical fitness program.

Two Streaks Finally End

One Game Halts Win and Defeats Records.

(By Associated Press)

A pair of streaks came to an end in the American Association yesterday as Milwaukee's six-game winning run was broken by St. Paul, which thereby gained its first victory after dropping six in a row.

* * *

The Saints defeated the leagueleading Brewers, 3-2, with a blast of three runs in the last of the ninth. But the firm hold the Milwaukee team had grabbed on first place was unimpaired as its two closest pursuers, Kansas City and Louisville, lost—both in extra innings.

Louisville, after scrapping for 14 innings with Toledo, finally succumbed to the Mud Hens, 4-3, and Kansas City dropped a 10-inning affair to Minneapolis, 12-11. Indianapolis rallied to spill Columbus, 10-7, in the day's fourth game.

Johnny McCarthy drove in seven runs to lead Indianapolis to victory over Columbus, the Indians getting six markers in the fifth to tie the score, 7-7, and making two in the sixth and one in the eighth to sew up the game.

Wildcats Meet Iowa Hawkeyes

CHICAGO—(AP)—Northwestern, only unbeaten team among the seven members of the Big Ten which have already started conference baseball play, faced the threat of Iowa's Hawkeyes in week-end games today and tomorrow.

* * *

The hard-hitting Wildcats, who beat Chicago in two contests last week, were host to the Hawkeyes, tied for second place with Illinois. Northwestern's team batting mark is .337.

Tribe Looks Like Team

Position in Pennant Race Helped By Bagby.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Predictions aside, the Cleveland Indians look like a baseball club, sitting up there in a tie for second place with the Boston Red Sox.

Pitcher Jim Bagby notched his third straight victory yesterday when the Indians launched a 13-hit attack to whip the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 2, and gain their fifth triumph.

The Tribe has a home run leader in Kenny Keltner, but most important, the Indians are playing tight ball the entire game. In three of their five contests they have come from behind to win, and in the other two games they broke ties in the late frames.

In gaining their lop-sided victory yesterday, the Indians came to bat in the eighth with a 2-all tie.

With two out in the eighth, Keltner started the barrage with his homer. Heath singled and went to second when Walt Judnich fumbled. Elden Auker walked Les Fleming to make an infield play easier, but Heath and Fleming scored when Chet Laabs dropped Lou Boudreau's fly to right field. Lou reached second, but died there.

Cleveland scored four runs on four hits in the ninth.

Mel Harder was named for the Tribe and Danny Galehouse for the locals in today's battle.

COUNTY PLANS ROAD OILING

100,000 Gallons Ordered To Keep Dust Away From Homes in County.

Rural Richland countians, who probably will spend more time at home this summer because of tire and gasoline rationing, won't have to contend with road dust in front of their homes, County Engineer Howard Sword said today.

The county has ordered 100,000 gallons of road oil, which is about the usual amount, and delivery is expected soon after May 20. The engineer said, however, that a scarcity of tank cars may hold up delivery of the oil.

County road workers will spread 100 gallons of oil in front of every home on stone and gravel roads if the house is within 300 feet of the road. The oiling will begin late in May if the order is delivered in time, Sword said.

Besides keeping the dust nuisance down, oil protects the surface of secondary roads by preventing rapid wearing and washing away of the top materials, members of the county engineer's staff said.

Oil Production In U. S. Could Supply World

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Simply by abandoning the policy of conservation, this nation's 380,000 oil wells could provide more oil than the whole world produced last year.

This was the assurance given by John D. Gill, economist of the Atlantic Refining company, who said he made his reckoning after figuring the oil production lost to the United Nations as a result of the seizure of Borneo and Sumatra by the Japanese.

"Since Singapore, the United States has become more than ever the Allied source of liquid fuels and lubricants," he said. "With Borneo and Sumatra in the enemy's hands, 62,000,000 barrels annual production were lost to the Allies, though, due to the courageous use of the scorched-earth policy, not all of it was gained by the Japanese.

"But the loss of this production to the Allies greatly increases the transportation problem. Sixty-two million barrels may not seem so much to our country's annual consumption, but it is nearly two and one-half times as much as Japan used in peace time for all purposes, and five times as much as the combined crude oil production of the Axis powers."

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

For the boy who likes to make things the Mansfield Public Library childreu's department has two new books on electricity and the radio. One book is a new edition of a title that has been useful for a long time and the other is a new title by the same author.

BOY ELECTRICIAN, by Alfred Morgan—Many principles of electricity are explained for older boys in this book. In addition to this there are many practical applications with directions for the construction of many electrical things such as bells, telegraph instruments, motors and model railroads. Numerous diagrams clarify the text.

FIRST RADIO BOOK FOR BOYS, by Alfred Morgan—This is one of the most complete of the recent books for young people on radio. After explaining the principles involved the book discusses the parts of radio apparatus and gives directions for building a simple set. The sets described later become more and more complex until the construction of a two tube set with a speaker is directed. There are other chapters on licenses and telegraphy and on the use of a radio with an electric phonograph.

New Nazi Planes Are Inferior To British Fighters

LONDON — (INS) — Although bombing raids on Britain have not been heavy in recent months, British fighter pilots have shot down several of Germany's new Dornier 217's.

Built on the same lines as the Dornier 172, it is a high winged monoplane with twin engines, twin fins and twin rudders.

When loaded it is reported to have a maximum speed of 290 mph. and a cruising speed of 248 mph.

Unloaded its top speed is roughly 320 mph.

With such a high speed it was obviously intended that it should be able to outfly opposing pursuit planes, but Britain's ace nite fighter—the Bristol Beaufighter—has proved a great success in combatting this latest menace.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Baptist Church of Amithy, (or Amity) Knox County, Ohio, will take notice that Bertha F. Nichols, Executrix of the Last Will and Testament of Doctor John H. 2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need

PAM—"Vengeance!" By A. W. Brewerton

YOU THOUGHT I'D FORGOTTEN, DIDN'T YEH? I SAID I'D LIVE TO GET REVENGE ON YOU—REVENGE! AND THE THOUGHT OF THAT KEPT ME ALIVE, KEPT ME GOING—FOR THIS MINUTE!
4-24
NO, I DIDN'T THINK YOU'D FORGOTTEN, DOUG! THEY WARNED ME TO LOOK OUT FOR YOU—BUT I GAVE YOU CREDIT FOR COMMON SENSE.
HUH! FINE WORDS—BUT THEY'LL DO YOU NO GOOD, CLIFF!
I TELL YOU I'VE LIVED FOR THIS MINUTE THROUGH MONTHS OF IRON BARS, OF BEING ORDERED AROUND, OF BEING HERDED WITH COMMON CRIMINALS—BUT NOW IT'S YOUR TURN, CLIFF!
SOMEHOW, THE COLONEL'S COOLNESS AND COURAGE, THE FACT THAT HE DIDN'T CRINGE AND BEG FOR MERCY, SEEMED TO DISCONCERT CARSON!
YOU'RE GOING TO DIE, CLIFFORD CAREY—UNDERSTAND? TO PAY FOR WHAT YOU DID TO ME!

FEW LEADERS SHOW SLIGHT UPWARD MOVE

Stocks Generally Held To Slim Range; Shortages Hurting Business.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks held to a slim range in today's dealings with a few leaders moving up slightly from the depressed closing levels of Thursday.

Up minor fractions were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, and Pennsylvania. American Telephone dipped to a new low since 1938. Unchanged to a shade lower were American Can, Chrysler, General Motors, and Montgomery Ward.

Shedding light on the recent public buying splurge was the comment of this week's Dun & Bradstreet merchantile review.

Retailers reported sales spotty, it said, blaming in part a poor assortment of some lines of merchandise because of shortages. Tapering off of advance buying was attributed to an expected reaction from hoarding.

On the average, said the review, the nation's retail business was about 4 to 9 per cent ahead of the comparable period of 1941.

URGES AID FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Senator Would Farm Out Printing And Use Newspaper Ads.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Farming out much of the government's printing business to small private plants and the placing of government advertising in newspapers were advocated by Senator Willis (R-Ind) last night.

A former editor himself, Willis told an informal round-table of Senators, representatives and members of the national small business conference that small printing plants and newspapers were suffering severely because war priorities had cut advertising revenues, in some cases by two-thirds.

Willis suggested that the newspapers be used to advertise war bonds and, as a measure of economy, advocated doing away with government press agents.

CON MAN CAUGHT —DISCOURAGED

Captured After Flight From Prison In Bread Hamper.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Frank Halbreda, Cleveland's leading con man, according to police, resided at Central station today, awaiting return to Warrensville workhouse from where he escaped last month.

Halbreda, 28, said he concealed himself in a bread hamper and was driven, via truck, to another part of the work farm. When the truck stopped he got out and walked away.

"Tell my mother," he said to Detective William J Lavin, who made the arrest, and added: "I'm tired of this kind of life. I tried to enlist last fall but was turned down because of my record."

STRIKE QUIETED

Pupils Go To Classes After Being Told Action Unamerican.

STEUBENVILLE —(AP)—Steubenville high school students were back at classes today after hearing a plea that "it isn't American to strike." The students gathered in front of the school building yesterday to protest the refusal to rehire Superintendent Russell Schafer.

The demonstration ended after Schafer told the students: "It is your American privilege through your parents to state your opinions to the school board, but it isn't American to strike."

AGREEMENT SETS PRICE

SETTLE FOR $25

Litigants Reach Agreement In $30,000 Collision Suits.

TOLEDO —(AP)— Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed dismissed two suits seeking $30,000 in damages after a $25. settlement.

The actions stemmed from a collision at Vermilion, May 9, 1937, between a sailing yacht and a fishing tug. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mille and George Mille met death in the accident. Fred W. Mille of Lorain, filed the suits against the tug Grandon, which sank in Vermilion harbor during a storm last summer.

It is questionable, even at today's low prices, whether industrial stocks will continue to yield as much as 5%. But there is nothing to indicate that Keystone Custodian Bond Funds, B-3 and B-4, will yield less than today's generous returns of 8% and 9%, with appreciation possibilities at least equal to stocks. Required prospectus mailed on request. Livingston, Williams & Co., OPS Bldg., 4171-6. (R-K)
